

REPRESENTATIVES of the New Zealand administration of British Samoa claim that the unrest reported among certain chiefs of the Samoan tribes has been stirred up by unspecified "Europeans," presumably Germans, but that the natives as a whole are satisfied with the New Zealand administration.

This may or may not be correct, but it is the present situation. But it is decidedly true as to the beginning of the trouble early in the New Zealand administration of these islands. There is a constant discontent in Samoa, even among the white inhabitants. British and German alike, due to the determination of the New Zealand government to include the white inhabitants in the prohibition law. They are all in favor of prohibition for the natives but they regard it as beneath their dignity as white men to be held to the same law. The original native discontent, however, was based on the laxity of the administration during the terrible influenza epidemic which spread around the world and devastated nearly every people in it, with the single exception of the cousins of these same islanders on the neighboring island of Tutuila. The naval administration on that island kept the epidemic from the island and there was not a single case of influenza. Theoretically this can be done on any isolated island by quarantine, but actually it was probably accomplished nowhere else in the world. The New Zealand administrator of Western Samoa at that time was a person with a large number of honorary letters after his name, who was far too dignified to trouble himself with such small matters as supervising the beach patrol. The result was that sailors from a British ship brought the influenza ashore, and one-fifth of the native population died and there were for some weeks not enough well persons to nurse the sick, bury the dead, or provide and prepare food. The natives at that time petitioned that the mandate for Western Samoa be transferred to the United States if that was possible, or if not, be at least a direct mandate from England instead of under the New Zealand administration. The petitioning chiefs were, of course, promptly squelched and they withdrew their petition with apologies, but similar discontent has been rumbling ever since, and it is doubtful that even the busy Germans, who would, to be sure, not be above it, are responsible for a trouble which goes much deeper.

WHILE America in its sole South Sea colony made a good record at that time, and earned the gratitude of the natives, even our little station at Pango Pango presents a problem which deserves more attention than it is ever likely to get. The two small islands of American Samoa are technically in the same legal status as a deck of a warship. They are a naval station and the command of the commanding officer the only law. We have not always been fortunate in the selection of commanders for this distant and isolated station. One officer was removed for insanity after the natives had long suffered under his vagaries and some others have been far from tactful in dealing with the high-spirited natives. They are a hard race to command, they are rather than to deal with a gentle and childlike, but very proud and lovable people. If the proposed new civil department of island possessions is once established, one of its minor but most useful services will be to set up a real civil government for these hitherto pathetically neglected natives.

OPponents of the initiative and referendum have been quoting somewhat gleefully a sentence of the writer to the effect that, "It is a curious fact that the initiative and referendum, while in form an appeal to the people, are rarely an appeal by the people. The actual appeal is nearly always a special interest willing to put up the money." The inference is that this is a reputation of the referendum by one of its original advocates.

IF the industrious quoter would take the trouble to read the whole article from which the quoted sentence was taken, they would have noticed that it drew exactly the contrary conclusion. The argument was that the way out of the difficulties of the referendum is not backward but forward. Nothing has been lacking in the experience of direct legislation which was not anticipated and predicted at least by the writer, from the beginning. It was pointed out that direct legislation could not be a substitute for representative legislation, but would rather be chiefly useful in putting the hands of the legislature, or as to enable it to serve the people more freely and responsibly. With a fully developed referendum system, the right to appeal from the legislature the present restraints imposed by our own constitution, in its action.

The referendum and the direct primary should give us the right to alter and the short constitution. Then they do, they will have justified themselves and they will work, they are not working perfectly, the remedy is not to go back to the old system, which they superseded, but forward to the new system, which is their logical completion. The "reaction of sentiment" should be not against the progressive measures but against the conservatism which has stopped half way in between.

Maitland and Hegenberger Return

FLYERS ARE GREETED BY HUGE CROWD

San Francisco Turns Out En Masse to Cheer Men Who Flew to Hawaii

Army Birdmen Back After Epoch Making Flight To Reap Their Reward

(By United Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—Fourteen days after they pointed the nose of their great three motored "Bird of Paradise" through Golden Gate toward Hawaii, Lieutenants Lester J. Maitland and Albert F. Hegenberger came home today to the rewards of their conquest.

First welcomed by roaring squadrons of airplanes, the army fliers entered the bay aboard the California-Honolulu liner Maul. The Maul came to berth at pier 32 at 10:10 a. m. The wives of the Trans-Pacific airmen stood waiting on the pier, a little to one side of the crowd. Lieutenant Maitland saw his wife almost immediately and waved excitedly. He was joined by Hegenberger and both waved delighted greetings while the crowd set up a gigantic cheer.

America's first greeting to the men who first conquered the aerial wastes between this country and the Hawaiian Islands was shouted from the deck of a tug by Mayor James Rolph Jr.

"Boys, we're glad you're with us again," he cried.
Major H. B. Claggett, senior officer at Crissy field, shouted from the tug:
"Hello Les!"
"Hello Major," Maitland replied. The city's plans for welcome were set several hours back by the delay in the Maul's arrival, caused by heavy haze off Golden Gate. At 7 a. m., after the scheduled time of docking, a squadron of planes took off from Crissy field to attempt to sight the vessel, returning because of poor visibility.

At 8:25 the Maul was reported several miles off Golden Gate and the planes left the field again, wheeling above the liner as it steamed through the bay entrance to quarantine. The welcome on the sunny bay assumed a spontaneous character. Countless boats of all descriptions crowded into the escorting fleet. Fire boats threw streams of water skyward. Band music mixed raucously with the scream of sirens and whistles.

Lost Faucet Is Cause Of 2 Deaths

MERCED, Calif., July 12.—A petty argument over the lost handle to a water faucet culminated in a duel to the death between F. M. Derby, 55, a barber, and S. S. Terrell, 70, in the front yard of their home last night.

PUBLICITY MAN OF HOLLYWOOD IS FOUND DEAD

Percival L. Lynwood Is Believed by Police Murder Victim

(By United Press)
LOS ANGELES, July 12.—With mystery surrounding the discovery here of the lifeless body of Percival L. Lynwood, motion picture publicity man, police launched an inquiry to determine whether he was the victim of a brutal beating or a protracted drinking spree.

Lynwood, lately employed by a commercial advertising firm, was found at the foot of a bed in an apartment in the exclusive Wilshire district. His wife, Mrs. Marie Lynwood, who was in the apartment when police entered, was in a dazed condition from liquor, police said.

A deep gash, two inches long, at the back of Lynwood's head gave credence to the murder theory, although his hands were clenched and the body muscles cramped indicating, detectives said, that he may have been the victim of convulsions caused by drinking poison liquor.

Police were summoned by Dr. J. C. Ross, who found the man dead at 4 a. m. today. The apartment gave indications that a "party" or a fight had been in progress. Furniture was overturned and empty gin bottles and glasses were strewn about the apartment.

PROPOSAL IS MADE U. S. IN NAVY PARLEY

Real Signs of Hope Seen In Plan of British in Geneva Meeting Today
RESUME DISCUSSION
Great Britain Wants to Retain Old Cruisers Now Past Useful Age

(By United Press)
GENEVA, July 12.—New British proposals brought real signs of hope to the naval armaments conference today. The main point of the proposition, it was understood, is based on the idea of permitting Great Britain to retain cruisers that have passed the age limit without including them in her total tonnage.

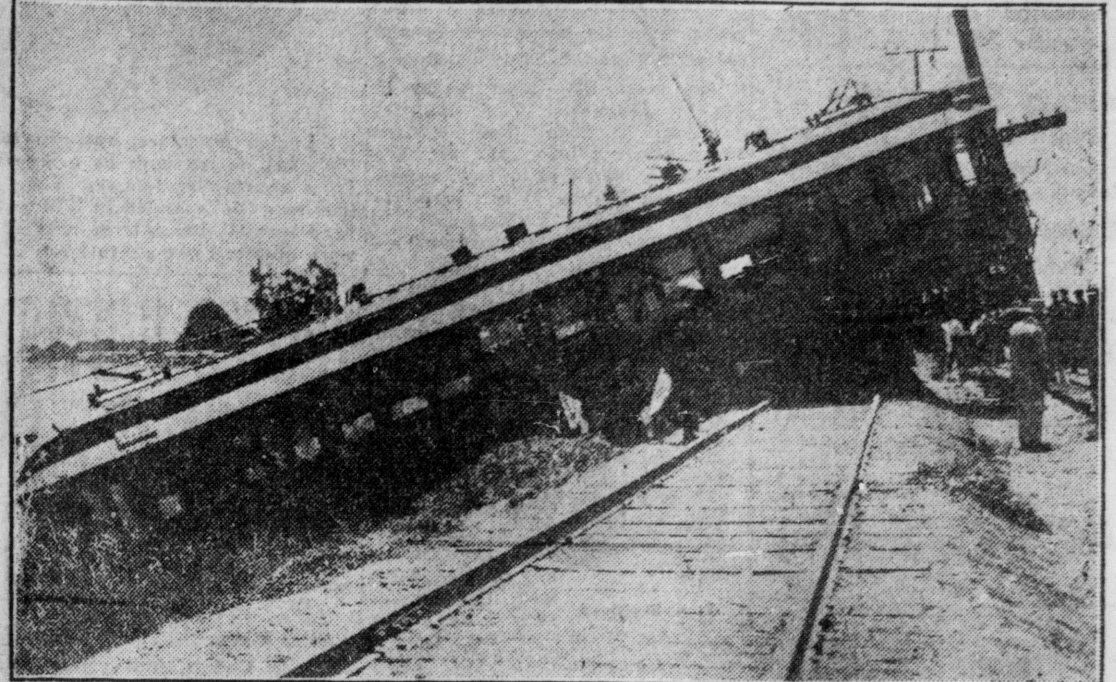

Such cruisers, the British delegates suggest, will have lost their value as offensive vessels while retaining their defense value for national security and protection of trade routes.

The proposals have already been submitted to Hugh S. Gibson, head of the American delegation and president of the conference, and if acceptable to the Americans may form the basis of the establishment of parity between Great Britain and the United States in cruisers of combatant value.

Discussions were resumed today in the hope of reaching a satisfactory agreement in time for a plenary session which will be held probably tomorrow or Thursday. Expressing the optimism which has suddenly manifested itself at the conference, W. C. Bridgman, first lord of the British admiralty and head of that delegation, told a gathering of the British press that the greatest obstacle now facing the conference was no longer the question of total tonnage, but the fixing of size and characteristics of the vessels.

Postponement of yesterday's plenary session, he said, was not due to a deadlock but to a conviction that additional discussion might make possible an agreement on cruisers. The cruiser problem once solved, Bridgman added, the relative differences over submarines and other classes of auxiliary vessels would soon be solved.

PREDICTS CLOSE OF BOULDER DAM FIGHT

RENO, Nev., July 12.—Early settlement of the Boulder Dam controversy is advocated by Governor Dern of Utah. Governor Dern, speaking yesterday before members of the California Editorial association, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine and delegates to the 11 states agricultural conference said:

"Utah and the upper river states do not want to sacrifice their rights. This is sort of a question of states rights against nationalisms. The Colorado river belongs to the states. We believe a great power resource should be made to produce some revenue on a taxation basis to relieve high property taxes. "We want California to get water because California is our best market but just the same Utah feels it wants to change the program embodied in the Swing-Johnson bill to one more favorable to the upper states."

Ryan, local stockman. Ryan died Saturday of apoplexy hastened, the jury declared by a blow upon the head struck by Hoover July 8.

JULIAN TRIAL DATES SET AS PLEAS ENTERED

Los Angeles Bankers in Attack on True Bills Are Unsuccessful

(By United Press)
LOS ANGELES, July 12.—With an attack upon the true bills returned against 85 prominent Los Angeles business men and financiers successfully blocked the Julian Petroleum corporation inquiry was a step nearer the courts today.

The first group of defendants, those charged with violation of the state securities act, will go to trial September 8, while those facing charges of conspiracy to violate the state usury law and obtaining money under false pretenses face trial October 4.

Date for the trials was set yesterday by Superior Judge Stephens after motions to dismiss, based on allegations that the indictments were improperly returned, were overruled and all defendants had entered pleas of not guilty. Meanwhile Cecil B. De Mille, motion picture producer, pleaded not guilty to a complaint charging him with usury, and was ordered to appear in municipal court July 18 and enter plea. He gave bond of $1000.

TWO OTHERS INJURED AS TRUCK HIT

Fullerton Youth Crushed Beneath Wreckage of Train Car and Auto ELECTRIC DERAILED
Motorman Says Driver of Machine Failed to Stop At Seventeenth Street

ONE MAN was killed and two were injured today at the Pacific Electric crossing of Seventeenth street, west of Santa Ana, when the luck that daily saves motorists from death at that crossing wavered for an instant. During that lax instant, the 18th of Glen M. Lilley, 18, of Fullerton, was snuffed out beneath the wreckage of a truck and a Pacific Electric train.

The youth, a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Lilley, 244 East Emergence avenue, Fullerton, was crushed to death when his father's gravel truck rolled on to the tracks in the path of an electric train, bound for Los Angeles, with two carloads of passengers at 3:35 a. m. The head car of the train was derailed and partially demolished as it ploughed its way into the ditch with its human cargo, leaving the truck in flames and its driver a mangled heap beside it.

W. B. Artz, of Tustin and Los Angeles, the father of C. O. Artz, prominent Tustin merchant, was severely injured. He was a passenger in the head car and was removed from the wreckage to the Santa Ana Valley hospital, here, where it was reported that he would probably recover. Except for Motorman A. H. Norris, of Santa Ana, who rode his car into the ditch, no other occupant of the train was injured. Norris suffered an injury to one foot.

Young Lilley's body was removed to the Smith and Thull under-taking parlors in Santa Ana and, later today, was removed to the McAuley establishment at Fullerton. Coroner Charles D. Brown had not completed arrangements for the inquest.

Why the truck driver failed to stop at the crossing was a question that could not be answered today by witnesses of the wreck, which was one of the worst in this district since two boys and a girl, of a party of six, were killed in the same manner at the same crossing two years ago.

Witness Accident
Train crew and passengers stated that Lilley was driving his truck east on Seventeenth street, bound toward Santa Ana, while the train was traveling toward Los Angeles. The track crosses the boulevard at an angle, so that the truck driver could have viewed the approach of the train without having to turn his gaze fully to the side. The vision at the crossing was unobstructed, it is said.

Motorman Norris and passengers stated that the train sounded its whistle repeatedly as Lilley approached the track. Norris said that he saw Lilley's truck slow near the track and thought he would stop. Norris said he had applied the emergency brake and his car was traveling 20 miles per hour. The truck didn't stop and was struck head-on, by the train. The leading car left the rails, swung its rear end partially around and smashed down a pole. Then it headed into the ditch. Despite its careening, the passengers, excepting Artz, were not badly shaken up, they said.

Thomas F. Douglas, 708 Eastwood avenue, Santa Ana, a passenger on the train, confirmed Norris' account of the wreck. He said the whistle blew so persistently he looked out to see "what was up." He saw the truck approach the crossing and then slacken speed, as though to halt. But it didn't halt.

DEMPSEY STILL HOLDS ESTEEM OF FIGHT FANS

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—With the Jack Dempsey-Jack Sharkey battle at New York but 10 days away, Southern California fans are rallying to the support of the erstwhile "Manassa Mauler" with cash, cheers and confidence.

Dempsey, following his defeat at the hands of Gene Tunney last September, has been acclaimed locally as probably no other idol or the sport realm. His business ventures have been closely watched, as well as his training camp activity at Soper's ranch before the eastward trek.

Spring street, the local financial rally, with its betting marts and recent "oil pools" figures Dempsey at no worse than even money to defeat Sharkey. Los Angeles gamblers, through their eastern representatives, are said to have dispatched sums of money aggregating six figures to call supporters of the "Lippy Lithuanian."

Cheers for Ex-King turing pictures of the Dempsey-Tunney battle, training camp shots at Ojai and Saratoga is the scene of cinema cheers that outdo a collegiate rooting section.

Flashes of the Carpenter and Firpo fights reveal the Dempsey of old. Then with the screening of the

"Slaughter of the Sesqui," Dempsey's punches that fell short brought gasps of amazement.
When the 1927 Dempsey appeared, the storm of cheers rocked the audience, an evidence of the regard of fans for his comeback bid.

An expression obtained by the United Press from Fred ("Windy") Winsor, one-time manager of Dempsey, predicts that Sharkey will be disposed of by a knockout inside of four rounds.

Winsor Likes Jack's Chances
"Dempsey is only the shell of a former great fighter, but Sharkey can't crack him. Dempsey will stop him and within the first four rounds," Winsor said.

"If this fight was against Gene Tunney, it would be different.
Tunney is a great fighter, Sharkey is not," Winsor continued. "Quintin Romero Rojas and Charlie Weinert beat him. He won from Mike McFigue only after the Irishman summured a hemorrhage.
Jim Maloney? A built up bubble who exploded," he concluded.

Report of Leo Flynn changing Dempsey's style at the eleventh hour, are construed here as training camp ballyhoo.

Those who follow the fight racket with support rather than money express firm convictions that Dempsey will start his heavy punching early and do the job up in the time. The lone shadow of doubt is to how Dempsey's ageing legs will stand the pace if by some "miracle" Sharkey avoids an early knockout.

TENNIS

PARIS, July 12.—Although the tennis rating of William T. Tilden, II, is hanging in the balance during his European tour, his status as a player is definitely determined—he will remain an amateur!

"I will not give up tennis, and as long as I can stand, I shall play in the American singles championships," he said during a busy afternoon at the Stade Francaise at St. Cloud.

This should permanently dissipate the hopes of the isolated professionals that the great master would join them and give their game the sorely needed aspect of respectability.

But the mind of "Big Bill" is clear on this point. There might have been a time when he listened to the tempting tones and terms of "Cash and Carry" Pyle, but he ca now turn a deaf ear with all composure.

Received as Champion
In this respect Tilden's European trip has been very persuasive. In all the countries he has visited and displayed his art he has been received as the great champion, the outstanding figure of the tennis world. He has been honored and feted; Germany, Holland, Belgium and France have welcomed him with great cordiality and watched his play with the idea of learning something.

These enthusiastic greetings have come from amateur circles. He has been able to see that everywhere in Europe the professional tennis player is an outsider. If he had been a professional all would have been different.
But "Big Bill" is not a professional and he is glad of it. If there were doubts, they are no longer entertained.

Will Never Quit Game
"I shall never give up the game in which I have meant something and which has meant so much to me," he said.

In Paris Tilden has heard a great deal about Lacoste, Borotra and Cochet, but practically nothing about Suzanne Lenglen. Things have changed since he was here last, a time when tennis could not be mentioned without being associated with Lenglen's name. The reason is that Lenglen is a professional.

His tennis destiny determined, Tilden is telling his friends about his stage career and how he intends to continue it in the fall. He says the stage will be his major interest, and he is considering an offer to produce a play in London.

Cavalleri, famed both as a singer and a beauty, have applied to the Paris courts for divorce. They were married in 1914. Mme. Cava-have turned over a large part of his fortune to the singer when they were divorced two years later.

YOUNG BRITISH JOURNALIST IN SURVEY OF U. S.

After a year in the United States
T. T. E. Cadett, first young British journalist to hold the Walter
established by the English Speaking Union, has returned to his home base, the London Times, wiser in the ways of America and Americans.

In a report on his stewardship as the first junior fellow, he summed up his experiences from June 30, 1926, to June 30, 1927, a year during which he worked on seven newspapers, lived for a fortnight on a university campus, worked in a factory, explored the American crime jungles and viewed the workings of congress.

As a reporter and feature writer
Cadett began his American newspaper experience in San Francisco on The Chronicle.

Starts on Coast
"It was decided I should begin on the Pacific coast and finish in New York," he said in his report.
"My main points of visit were San Francisco for the Pacific coast, Chicago for the middle west, Atlanta for the south, Washington for politics, Boston for New England and New York for itself."

In making his study of American life, the young Englishman was alert to the trivial incidents of everyday life as well as to the more professional aspects of his fellowship work, such as the comparison of the British and American journalistic methods. Before leaving San Francisco he became "one of the boys" at a University of California fraternity and took part in all the activities of the group for two weeks.

Gloom Unjustified

"It was a valuable experience," he wrote. "By proving I was not quite an old gentleman yet, I was rewarded by a trust and confidence on the part of the students, who revealed their normal life to me. From this I observed that the younger generations, as in my own country, may be iconoclastic and 'wild,' but that gloomy prophecies are unjustified."

Cadett added some thrilling moments to his memories of America during his study of crime and labor conditions in Chicago. Of his sorties into the Chicago underworld he wrote:

"The chief of police, engagingly trustful, gave me carte blanche to accompany his detectives when and where I liked. The reward was attendance at two gun battles, very amusing—afterwards—and some appreciation of the difficulties of dealing with such a vast mixture of nationalities.

POINCARE GIVES GERMANY REBUKE

PARIS, July 12.—Different theories are still being advanced as to the significance of M. Poincare's Luncheon speech, but it is said on good authority that its tone was decided by the prime minister in agreement with M. Briand, and there is reason to suppose that it was the deliberate intention of the government to administer a rebuke to Germany, and point out that the acts of her government, the attitude of her people and the declarations of her public men do not always encourage her neighbors to believe in her pacific intentions.

The criticisms of the speech that have been made in Socialist and Radical quarters do not amount to much.

Though some of the Radicals may have wished to say much about the speech, they had in mind that M. Briand, owing to his illness, would not be able to appear in the chamber for some days and preferred not to start a debate on foreign affairs that would be dominated by M. Poincare. The attitude thus assumed by the chamber confirms the belief that the speech is approved in the main by the majority.

Girl Of Eight May Take High School Course

TILDEN, Neb., July 12.—At the age of 8 Vergie Lee James is ready to enter high school. That means that if she does go to high school and progresses at the rate she has in grammar school, she will be ready to enter college at the age of 13 at the most, and possibly eleven or twelve, and so would leave college when 16 or 17, ages at which the great run of young men and women are thinking of entering college.

If one considers the average school year as having 150 days, then Vergie has been attending school less than three years' time in all, and yet she has just passed the Nebraska State examination required of all seventh and eighth grade pupils who complete five subjects at the end of the seventh year. In connection with Vergie's feat in passing the stiff examination, it is notable that the 50 per cent of those examined failed in grammar, this little girl attained a mark of 92.

Asked if she could explain why she is such a quick pupil, Vergie modestly explained:
"I think it must be because I never forget anything. When I am not sure that I understand a thing well, I am not satisfied until I do understand it so it will not perplex me."

In New York

NEW YORK, July 12.—That particular hollow-square in the heart of the Wall Street district, where European passports are issued, now begins to resemble Broadway on the night of a big winter premiere. The line forms on the right and keeps the clerks exceeding the pen and ink speed limit until after closing time.
Girls and women apparently make up the majority of those who plod the European pavements during the vacation season. Surely this becomes a woman's world. She taps the four corners of the globe alone, or with a girl companion or two. I have it from M. Mc-Intyre, of the Cunard line, that 140,000 female passengers were carried on their boats last season, this being something like 65 per cent of the total.

The ultra-modern ship makes elaborate efforts to cater to mi-lady's whims. On board the new French liner Ile de France, which recently made her maiden voyage, are "sidewalk shops" in imitation of the most exclusive French places. While riding home it becomes possible to catch up on all the shopping neglected in Paris.

This ship also has a built-in playground for children that includes a merry-go-round. There are "sidewalk cafes" to give the atmosphere of the Paris streets and the "largest dining room afloat," which accommodates 600 persons.
There is a church chapel two decks in height. Paintings of the Paris ultra-modern artists decorate the rooms. Twin beds take the place of berths and lacquer and gold decorate the salons.
There is a waterway along which boats can be rowed and a shoot-

IRISH MURDER SUSPECTS ARE UNDER ARREST

BY GEORGE MAC DONAGH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

DUBLIN July 12.—Nine men were to be arraigned here today on a charge of conspiracy in connection with the assassination of Kevin O'Higgins, vice president of the Irish Free State.

The suspects, arrested late yesterday, were alleged to be senior officers in a Republican organization, opponents of the present government.

Eamonn de Valera, leader of the opposition, in an interview severely condemning the killing of O'- Higgins, said he was "confident no Republican organization was responsible for or would countenance such a crime."

"It is a crime," he continued,
"that cuts to the root of all responsible government. No one who realizes what the crime means can but deplore and condemn it. The assassination is murder inexcusable from any standpoint."

The same attitude was shown by the Irish Labor party, also an opposition party. Its members passed a resolution by unanimous vote expressing their abhorrence of the assassination, condemning the act and sympathizing with relatives.

King George sent a message to Timothy Healy, governor general of Ireland and uncle of the dead man, expressing his "horror of the death, in such tragic circumstances, of Kevin O'Higgins."

He asked that the deepest sympathies of himself and the queen be conveyed to Mrs. O'Higgins "on the cruel loss she and her children have suffered."

"Y" HINDERED IN CHINA WORK. RELIEF IS SEEN

Y. M. C. A. work in China has been hindered, but by no means stopped, by the disturbed conditions in that land, according to official word received by R. C.
Smedley, of the local Y. M. C. A. from Fletcher S. Brockman, of the national council.

Brockman's letter states that the associations in China have passed through their period of greatest trial and peril during the past three months. The valuable buildings at Changsha and Hangchow have been occupied by enemies, the first being occupied by a communistic organization of young men, and the second as a temporary office for the new communistic government. The buildings at Nanking, Nanchang and Sunning have been commandeered for varying periods of time, and, in whole or in part, by military or civil authorities of the local governments in control at the time. The residences of the foreign secretaries at Changsha and Nanking were looted during the disorders accompanying the military occupation.

In general, communistic propaganda and activities have been directed against the Y. M. C. A., which is recognized as one of the strongest and most popular lines of Christian activity in China, Brockman writes.

On the other hand, within the past month, General Chiang Kai Shek has issued orders that Y. M.
C. A. and other Christian properties in the nationalist territory shall not be molested. The unauthorized occupation of these buildings and the interruption of association activities will, in the judgment of advisers on the field, be short-lived.

"Recent cablegrams from China, telling of a coalition of the forces of Chiang Kai Shek and Feng Yu Hsiang are full of hope," Smedley said. "These are without question the two men of all the military leaders of the past 10 years who have a definite program. They are fighting, not to place themselves in power, but to establish democratic institutions. If they succeed in their aims, the Y. M. C.
A. and other Christian organizations may expect a period of great progress and development."

This word from Brockman is regarded by Smedley and other local
"Y" leaders as most encouraging.
It is generally believed that the Y. M. C. A. work in China will be one of the stabilizing factors as the military troubles are brought to an end.

SMARTEST STYLES SHOWN IN SUMMER'S SOFT SHOES

Summer kid shoes, like summer

The higher the effect of the arch,

STATISTICS OF SUICIDES SHOW CLEW TO CAUSE

Suicides in the United States are becoming fewer, but are receiving more publicity than formerly. This conclusion was voiced in a report received from the office of the National Conference of Catholic Charities in Los Angeles.

Some of the striking facts brought out by this first exhaustive study of the suicide problem in this country are the following:
One out of every 100 deaths is a suicide; 10,000 a year.

There are five suicides among divorces for one among married families.

More men than women commit suicide. The proportion is three to one.

Economic conditions do not furnish an absolute index to the suicide rate.

Nations whose predominant religions teach abhorrence of self-destruction have the lowest suicide rate.

The suicide survey was made by Rev. Adolph Dominic Frenay, O. P.
Ph. D., of the department of sociology of the Catholic University of America at Washington, D. C. He spent three years in the task, consulted more than 150 works on the subject, interviewed some 400 university professors, insurance experts and government officials here and abroad, and received the full cooperation of every government department at Washington.

Dr. Frenay is expected to be one of the speakers at the forthcoming Catholic charities conference to be held in Los Angeles, September 4 to 8.

The synopsis of his report, received by the conference officials, states that the suicide rate in America reached its highest point in 1915.
With the following year it showed a remarkable decrease.

"As to racial tendencies toward self-destruction, records show that Germany, France, Denmark, Sweden and Japan have higher suicide rates than America, while the countries of Southern Europe, England, Ireland and the countries of Eastern Europe have a lower rate than our own."

The survey showed that while men and their lives more frequently than women, girls under 20 commit suicide more often than boys. This condition is laid to unfortunate love affairs and fear of disgrace. Married folk, the report indicated, show the least tendency toward suicide.

Widowed folk, both men and women, seek voluntary death far more frequently than do single persons, and divorced persons exhibit the greatest inclination to suicide.

Dr. Frenay says the theory that weather has a bearing upon the suicide rate may be disregarded.
Racial influences, however, are clearly discernible in a study of suicide causes. The German element is inclined to take matters more seriously than the Irish, and these national characteristics are reflected even in the hour of death. Americans of German descent have a greater tendency toward suicide than have Americans whose forebears were from Ireland, Italy, Spain or Poland.

Dr. Frenay pointed out that the church for centuries had educated the nations of the world to abhor self-destruction, and declares that the effects of this training are clearly evident in the life of the European nations as compared with each other. The same effects, his report states, can be traced in the strata of nationalities which make up the United States.

BRAINS DO NOT KNOW SEX SAYS BUSINESS GIRL

There is no sex in brains."
That is the answer that Miss Claire Samels, advertising manager for a Chicago firm gave to the question, "Do women make good executives?"

Miss Samels, who dropped school teaching 10 years ago to invade the business field, believes that women have a definite place in the business world.

"The question as to whether women make good executives depends upon just one thing—ability; the same thing which governs a man's fitness for any position.
Leadership is, of course, essential."

In her experience as an executive, Miss Samels has never given an order "I will you?" instead of "You will," with her. A request, not a command.

"The woman executive must be tactful and friendly," she asserted.
"I have found that employees work best when they are unhampered by orders. Given freedom, a chance to use their judgment, they try to justify that freedom."

"Point out the goal you wish your employee to reach and if he or she is a competent individual and given free rein that individual will work valiantly for you."

Miss Samels was asked whether if women are usurping men's places there would be less employment and more happiness if women at home.

"Women are not taking men's places," came the reply. "Men are just moving a step up. Take for example the advertising manager's job. Men used to handle it, but essentially it was a woman's job.
A woman intuitively knows more about style and fashion than a man. The advertising manager of the past has moved up. He is now the merchandising manager."

"Why shouldn't a woman spend time in a definite business instead of wasting time at bridge clubs and the thousand and one social activities with which she fills her leisure? It is an economic waste if a woman trained for some business or profession, who enjoys that life, does housework. Better to hire someone fitted to care for the home."

Miss Samels has no masculine quality. She is essentially feminine—womanly, chic, pretty and competent. A chance "tryout" in the advertising field during her summer vacation from school teaching opened the way to her entrance into the business world.

In ten years she has held almost every position in the advertising game from a copy writer to assistant advertising manager. She was promoted to advertising manager two years ago and is now one of the most successful women in her field.

SHERIFF JERNIGAN ACCUSES BOOZE RING OF ATTEMPT TO HURT HIM BECAUSE OF RAIDS

Commenting upon reports of further affidavits, containing charges that prisoners in the Orange county jail were cruelly treated, Sheriff Sam Jernigan today hurled defiance at what he terms a mixed "liquor-political" attack upon his administration.

"It is partly politics, of course," he said. "But also back of this attempt to injure me is sinister power of the illicit liquor traffic of Southern California."

"I was warned a year and a half ago by certain Los Angeles enforcement officials that the booze ring was after me and would do its utmost to blacken me, in revenge for the war we have waged in this county against booze. I was told that the plot was being hatched even then."

"A lot of it developed in the last campaign, when most of this stuff that is being circulated against me now was circulated then, in an effort to defeat me. It is not new to me. And many voters of the county know the nature of the campaign made against me."

Jernigan revealed statistics showing that his men had brought 720 liquor defendants into the Santa Ana and San Juan Capistrano justice courts alone.

"I am willing to compare that record with any in the state, where no special liquor squad is employed," Jernigan said. "We do this work with only our regular force of men, but we have done the job so thoroughly that they are out to 'get' me at any cost."

"As to complaints from prisoners in the jail, I still maintain that if anything had been wrong I would have heard from it from the prisoners, or from their attorneys, who are in and out of the jail constantly. No attorney has ever made a sign of complaint."

"Our records show that we have handled just 8333 prisoners in this jail since I have been sheriff. This lot has included L. W. W.'s, bootleggers and every sort of criminal. Mostly they are dissatisfied with the court for sentencing them when they arrive and come in cursing. Not all of them are bad but among such a number there are bound to be some who are very bad; some who will not approve of the best treatment."

"That gives some idea of what we are up against in handling prisoners and keeping them in good humor. I think anyone will agree that it presents a problem."

The report of a new affidavit charging that a certain motion picture actress was subjected to an attempt at mistreatment while serving a sentence in the county jail here several years ago for speeding, was regarded at the jail today as a "slip" by those whom the jailors charge are instigating a jail investigation for spite.

"That affidavit refers to Bebe Daniels," said Clyde Fowler, assistant jailor. "I saw a copy of it myself. It accuses Mr. Moncrief, the head jailor, of the attempted mistreatment of her. Which was a bad mistake for whoever is faking these affidavits. Because, you see, Bebe Daniels was in the jail before the Jernigan administration and Mr. Moncrief was not connected with the jail at that time."

District Attorney Z. B. West Jr., conferred yesterday with federal officials in Los Angeles for several hours. On his return he stated that he had nothing to announce regarding the conference, or further developments in his investigation of the jail.

Sheriff Jernigan stated today that he has suspended Deputy Jailor Joe Irvine, pending the outcome of an investigation of the alleged theft of 140 cases of liquor from the courthouse in 1925. Irvine was said to have been jailed before the federal grand jury in Los Angeles some time ago, in connection with the affair. He was on his vacation at that time and until July 1, when his suspension went into effect.

THREE FINED ON DRUNK AND AUTO CHARGES

Three men arrested Sunday afternoon by Frank Vaughn, state traffic officer on the Newport boulevard were given fines in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court late yesterday.

Robert Bunkley, negro, charged with reckless driving, was given the alternative of paying a fine of $200 or spending as many days in jail. Jack Fredericks was fined $50 for being drunk and H. H. Riley, on a drunk charge, was fined $30.

All three men reside in Newport Beach. They were on their way to that city when Vaughn overtook them, arresting them from his machine. Vaughn was disabled two years ago and was not able to get out of the car. Attempts on the part of the three men to escape were blocked when Vaughn threatened to shoot them with a gun which he did not have.

In court today Bunkley was asked by Justice Morrison: "Did you realize that you are facing a three-year term in the state's prison?"

"Wassat? Wassat you say?" the negro asked in a startled tone. The judge repeated the question.

"Naw, Sir, I sho didn't," Bunkley replied.

"Well, it's a fact," Justice Morrison said.

"Huh, I guess I'll have to go any place you all want to send me, Judge," Bunkley replied dejectedly.

Bunkley had not paid his fine late today. Fredericks and Riley both paid fines yesterday.

BREA BROKER MISSING FROM HOME. REPORT

Mysteriously missing from his home since July 7, Gomer Downing, 32, well known insurance broker of Brea, was today the object of a search being made throughout the county by sheriff's officers.

Downing had about $100 on his person at the time he was last seen, in the Home restaurant, Placentia. Officers learned today. He went to the restaurant with two friends, Fay Richards and D. Massey, but left before they did, saying he was going to the home of a man named Glenn to deliver a policy.

So far as is known, Downing never reached the Glenn home. He returned to the restaurant later, it was said and left several books, saying he would return for them later. He has not been seen since.

Roscoe Knight, deputy sheriff, said today that he had learned that Downing was in good standing with his company and that he had no known enemies. He has a wife and three children residing in Brea.

Downing is described as being five feet, eight and a half inches in height. He weighs 145 pounds, has blue eyes, dark complexion and sandy hair. When last seen he was wearing a straw hat, blue shirt and a brown suit with tan shoes.

Motorists Enjoy Trip Through July Snow

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Mater and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vandermaast returned Sunday from a most delightful ad also a rather exciting trip to Yosemite, inasmuch as they traveled through snow in July, which is an interesting experience for Southern Californians. They went from here to Bishop; thence to Mono Lake and through Tioga pass into Yosemite. Their car was one of the first to go through the pass, where snowploughs had cleared the way.

Before reaching there they had stopped at Tamarack lodge near Mammoth, and Twin Lakes. The elevation there was some 7500 feet. At Silver lake they mounted horses up the trail to Gem Lake which is about 9900 feet in elevation. A few days were spent at Yosemite and then they traveled to California Hot Springs. In the Sierras about 80 miles from Bakersfield is Camp El Capitan, owned by William De Wolfe of Santa Ana. Here they found rates more reasonable than at any place on their trip and good food and accommodations. They had a pleasant visit with Newell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vandermaast, who is spending his vacation there, and is to return home the latter part of August. Their journey homeward was by way of the Ridge route.

BUSINESS WOMEN CARRY OUT FLOOD RELIEF BENEFIT PLAN

Scoring a marked success with their benefit card party given last night at the Rose Arbor tea room, members of the Business and Professional Women's club were today assured of a goodly sum of money which will be turned over to the Mississippi Flood relief benefit fund. In addition they had a feeling of satisfaction at having planned a most enjoyable evening which was participated in by 100 members and guests.

Several weeks ago, Mrs. E. S. Chamberlain, proprietor of the Rose Arbor, placed the tea room and its equipment at the disposal of the B. and P. W. for a benefit card party, and Mrs. Laura Murray, club president, named Miss Helen Gallagher and a committee of members to arrange details of the affair.

Many Contributors
Miss Gallagher has been tireless in her efforts to make the party a success and has had the splendid aid of her committee members as well as co-operation from those who were asked to contribute. The latter included in addition to Mrs. Chamberlain (who not only gave the tea room and its equipment, but also prepared all the foods served at the late supper) the Excelsior company, the George Edgar grocery, Smart and Final and Orana Produce company, who contributed to the supper menu; Smith and Tutill and the Knights of Columbus who gave the use of chairs; the Santa Ana laundry which is laundering all the napkins used; the Quality Print shop which presented the printed tickets, and a group of club members who donated a cake apiece, with Mrs. Rosa Myers, a non-member, also giving a delicious cake. In addition the Taylor Cannery company gave preserves at cost.

Active Committee
The committee having these various matters in charge was composed of Miss Gallagher, chairman; Miss Martha Whitson, Miss Gallene Finley, Miss Pearl Nicholson, Mrs. Caroline Yoch Barnett, Miss Virginia Craig, Miss Juanita Snyder, Mrs. Italy Lee, Miss May Beamer, Miss Katherine Woods and Miss Elaine Wharton who had charge of reservations, and who sold 115 tickets.

Guests were greeted by a reception committee composed of Mrs. Murray, club president, Miss Martha Whitson, president of the Orange county B. and P. W. federation, and Miss Louise Kaiser, past president. The Rose Arbor presented a very charming and animated scene with soft lights gleaming on pretty frocks. Bridge was the dominant game although a few tables of 500 were in evidence. Progression was in groups of five, and at the close of the fifth game, scores were tallied, and the high score at each table won its holder an attractive prize, pretty bridge score pads and pencils for the feminine players and neat little shoe shining compacts for the men.

Prizes Given
Those winning such gifts were Mabel Larrick, Mary Hawkins, Mabel A. Reeves, Horace Fine, W. M. Cory, Mrs. Mark Lacy, Eleanor Elliott, Charlotte Gammell, Elva Boyd, Edna Gammell, Mrs. Walter O. Hill, N. Opal Davis, Frances Potts, Ethel Hedrick, Laura Taylor, Mabel Wimmer of Orange, Harriett McKee, Dorothy Burr, Mrs. C. Borchard, L. L. Covert, Leo Larsen of Anaheim, Winifred L. Fisher of Anaheim and Elaine Wharton.

After distribution of prizes, a two-course supper was served, chicken salad, hot biscuits, preserves, potato chips and coffee, followed by home-made cake and ice cream.

The group was delighted to welcome Anaheim and Orange club members including Mrs. Mabel Wimmer, Orange club president, and Winifred Fisher, Anaheim president. The latter joined with her members in singing a spirited song before departing at the party's close.

Alter Society Holds Card Party

A pleasant card party was given Tuesday evening by St. Ann's Altar society in the parish hall. After the game of five hundred which was the diversion enjoyed, Mrs. Harry Edwards was found to be holder of high score and received the first prize. Mrs. Urban J. Engelman, holder of the lowest, also received a prize.

Prizes among the men went to Henry Holtz and Antone Borchard. Mrs. J. Holtz was the lucky winner of a prize cake. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee were served at the close of the evening.

July Western Woman Filled with Interest

The Western Woman, that little publication devoted to clubwomen and their work and published in Santa Ana by Ada King Wallis, has made its July appearance, and found its way to the desk of home of most of Santa Ana's clubwomen, who find it filled with matters of interest both of local and general import.

The number's leading articles are extremely interesting and will prove enlightening to readers. There is an account of the activities and interests of the Los Angeles Florence Crittenton society and its home for unmarried mothers; the Fourth District P.-T. A. and its work, and a story of the practical results of Americanization work in the local field.

Mrs. Henry M. Hurd, president of the Los Angeles Florence Crittenton home, has written the story of that home and its work in rehabilitation of unfortunate girls, in an exceedingly interesting article, "A Place Where Disillusioned Girls Find Sanctuary."

In the article on P.-T. A. work, the Fourth District association's successful efforts to introduce the music series is lauded as the inspiration for other districts of the state, to follow suit. As a result, these P.-T. A. concert courses which have proven so interesting throughout the district, will be introduced in all parts of the state during the coming year. Loan exhibits of paintings, the humane education department and federal measures pertaining to education and maternity, are features of the same article.

Cora Mel Patten, national chairman of the Junior Dramatic society of America, and director of the P.-T. A. Children's hospital, Los Angeles, contributes a well-written article on the growth of the Children's Theater movement in the United States. This seems to contain an idea which Santa Ana Community Players might well observe, as it tells of the Denver Community Players who contribute regular entertainment for children in connection with their dramatic activities.

An account of the recent Southern District Business and Professional Women's convention in Santa Monica is another feature of the number, and will be of special interest to local B. and P. W. since it tells of their part in the convention and especially of their success in winning the Rosalind Bates silver loving cup offered for the best press work in the district.

Children are not forgotten by Mrs. Wallis, and she offers in her "Children's Hour," the prize-winning essay in the recent county W. C. T. U. essay contest, "Evelyn Signing the Pledge," by Julia Kim, Tustin schoolgirl. The page is all devoted to the Great Emancipator, with a little tale of his thoughtfulness, and quotations from his writings.

To complete the issue are Mrs. King's excellent editorials, "An Ordinary Mother" and "Mistakes," the former with Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of the intrepid young flyer who conquered the Atlantic as its theme, and the latter, dealing with "mistakes of the heart" and "mistakes of the head."

S. A. Country Club

Bridge will be the magnet to draw feminine members of Santa Ana country club to the clubhouse tomorrow when the monthly afternoon session will be held. These informal parties are among the most enjoyable of the club events, and always attract a crowd of enthusiasts.

Most of them motor down in time to enjoy lunching together on the solarium preliminary to playing, and a special luncheon menu is always featured on card days. Prizes which have a special appeal to femininity have been chosen to add their zest to tomorrow's contest. Punch and cakes will be served during the afternoon.

Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated with Bridge Dinner

Assembling a little group of congenial friends for dinner and bridge, Mr. and Mrs. Major M. Anderson of 2323 Bonnie Brae, last night celebrated their thirtieth wedding anniversary in happy fashion.

Mrs. Anderson arranged three small tables for four guests each for serving dinner, centering each table with a low bowl of pink blossoms with which place cards harmonized. A three-course menu was served, and at its conclusion the dinner linens were exchanged for card table covers and the tables utilized for bridge.

Mrs. Alvin Berry and Alfred J. Ralph were successful winners of the two first prizes while second high scores were made by Mrs. Ralph and John McCarty, each of whom received an attractive gift.

Good wishes for many more happy years of married life were extended Mr. and Mrs. Anderson by their guests who were Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Kinslow, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Ralph, Mr. and Mrs. John S. McCarty, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Berry.

Happy Party on Seventh Birthday

Being seven years old, is a very delightful thing—or so little Miss Eloise Hiskey would tell you, for Eloise discovered that when the magical seven is reached, it means a birthday party. And the way she discovered it was by that best of all ways—experience.

For late last week when her birthday came, a group of close friends arrived to spend the afternoon at her home on South McClay street. Her mother, Mrs. Walter Hiskey, directed a number of merry games, with the assistance of Miss Catherine Hiskey. When the children tired of these, they were taken to the dining-room where refreshments were served.

Everything was in pink and white even the decorated birthday cake with its seven pink candles. Pretty pink nut cups held salt nuts, and ice cream was served with the variety of home-made cakes and candy.

Many pretty gifts were presented Eloise by her playmates who were Joyce, Doris and Marie Wentworth, Jeanne Allen, Dorothy Eddy, Dorothy Wynn, Paul Purvis, Lorene Rogers, Claire Louise Cullen and Mary Holmes.

PRESIDENT IS RECIPIENT OF STRANGE GIFTS

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

RAPID CITY, S. D., July 12.—President Coolidge could start a general merchandising store, a stable, or a cowboy outfitting emporium with gifts he has received since he arrived in the west for his summer vacation.

Mail being received here is three times the size of the White House mail in Washington and most of it contains gifts ranging from beads for Mrs. Coolidge to poems for Mr. Coolidge.

In Washington Mr. Coolidge was able to build up a zoo to sizeable proportions by donations of animals. There he has received a baby kangaroo, two lions, a bear, a raccoon, a peacock, three dogs, two cats and a pair of rabbits.

Out here fishing tackle, saddles and ten gallon hats are favorite gifts. The other day the president wanted to offer his personal physician, Major James F. Coupal, a 10 gallon headpiece and referred him to the hat room at the summer White House where he found 35 cowboy sombreros piled up. They had been sent to him by local citizens.

Everett Sanders, secretary to the president, spends 18 hours a day writing letters thanking well wishers for files and worms sent to Mr. Coolidge. The president is using files almost entirely now.

He went fishing before dinner last night and again this morning before coming to work at the exquisite offices. He had to hurry back to the game lodge, however, because the pony express from Cheyenne was due at 2 p. m. The pony express was organized by Governor Frank Emerson of Wyoming to bring Mr. Coolidge an invitation to visit that state. Governor Emerson came up by train and brought a delegation with him for lunch at the summer white house preparatory to receiving the pony express invitation.

FIGHTING DICK TAKES COUNT IN JUSTICE COURT

Barney Wrottenberg, Los Angeles cattle buyer, better known as "Fighting Dick" Hyland, pugilist of national fame a generation ago, took the count in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court early today, when he pleaded guilty to several charges filed against him.

"Well, I get the works, I guess," he said as he pleaded guilty to being drunk, possession of liquor and breaking glass on the pavement. He was fined $150 for possessing liquor, $50 for being drunk and $50 for breaking glass on the pavement.

The case of H. Brownlee, negro chauffeur for Hyland at the time he was arrested on Tustin's principal street, on June 26, who is charged with failure to stop and render aid after an accident, was continued until 9 a. m., tomorrow.

A charge against Hyland for failure to stop and render aid was dismissed when it was proved Brownlee was the driver of the machine. Hyland placed bail of $250 for Brownlee today, releasing him from jail.

Hyland, Brownlee and Rhoda Gould, daughter of Kit Gould, defender of Phil Goodwin, convicted of murder here a year ago, were on their way to San Diego on June 26, when the Hyland machine struck a car driven by Thomas J. Robinson, Whittier. Robinson claimed that the Hyland car did not stop. Mrs. Robinson was reported slightly injured.

Dan Adams, of the state traffic force, arrested the two men. The following day, Rhoda Gould was found talking through the bars of the jail to Hyland, and was arrested by Clyde Fowler, deputy jailer, who charged her with violating a state law in talking to prisoners from the outside. She pleaded guilty to the charge and was given the alternative of staying out of Orange county for one year or serving a six months' jail sentence. She decided to remain away from Orange county.

SWIMMING CLASS FOR BOYS FORMED

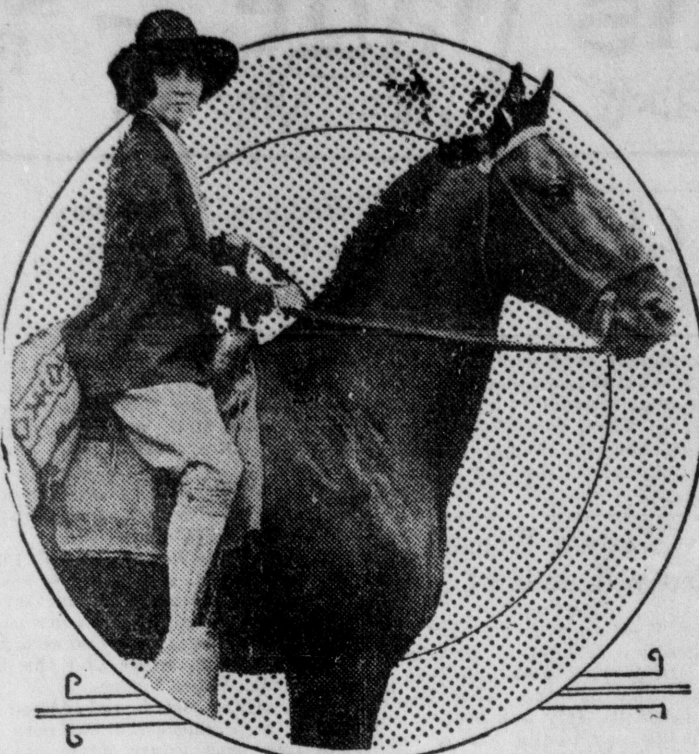

Swimming lessons for small boys will be offered at the Y. M. C. A. by Physical Director R. R. Russick starting next Monday morning and continuing for five lessons. The instruction will be given at 10 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings of next week, and on Monday and Wednesday of the following week. Boys from seven to 10 years of age may enter the class, which will be under the personal direction of Russick, who has earned a reputation by his success in teaching boys to swim in five lessons. The class will be limited to 25 boys, and from the advance inquiries that have been received at the Y. M. C. A. office lately, the full quota will be taken very quickly.

Parents who desire to have their boys learn to swim are requested to inquire at the Y. M. C. A. office in regard to the details on this class. Last year more than 50 small boys, and a considerable number of little girls, were taught to swim in the special classes in the "Y" pool.

During the past three weeks, several hundred youngsters have been made happy by the free swims provided by the Y. M. C. A. in connection with the Daily Vacation Bible schools.

SLY VAGABOND POSES AS KING; REIGN IS BRIEF

WARSAW, July 12.—"Captain von Kopenick" has been outdone by Joseph Szweczyk, and the peasants of Miloszkia have shown themselves more credulous than even the victims of the German impostor. That is doubtless because nowhere is the longing for restoration of the good old times of King and throne and court stronger than in a Polish village community. Taking advantage of the latter fact, Joseph Szweczyk, being out of work and impecunious, manufactured a lot of imposing looking documents heavily encrusted with seals, and with these easily persuaded the peasants of Miloszkia that he was a descendant of the ancient Kings of Poland, and was the rightful heir to the throne, who had been wickedly kept out of his kingdom by his enemies and by the wicked Republicans. Indeed, he represented that the Republican government was at that very time seeking to get hold of him, to imprison him or perhaps put him to death, and he implored his loyal "subjects" to protect him.

The appeal was effective. Young and old, male and female, the peasants rallied about their "king," and a bodyguard of 50 stalwart men was organized. Joseph promised that on the anniversary of his name day he would issue a royal manifesto which would bring all Poland to his support. Meantime, he was unable to take possession of the royal palace, but would be content for a while with the farmhouse of the chief landlord of the village, the landlord being at the moment absent in Warsaw.

This modest request the loyal peasants determined should be granted and the bodyguard with hundreds of supporters marched to the premises in question. As the house was locked up a royal levee had to be held in the open air. This so increased the pretensions of the "king" and the enthusiasm of his followers that he determined to take possession of the house by force. And this was done after a hard fight with knives, hatchets and cudgels. Preparations were then made for the defense of the house against any attempt of the landlord to regain possession. An improvised throne was erected in the hall, and Joseph, arrayed in purple robes and bearing other insignia of royalty, assumed sovereignty over his kingdom.

Presently, however, the landlord arrived from Warsaw, where he had received word of what was going on at his home. He was accompanied by a posse of police, and after a few shots had been fired and some lively clubwork performed, the peasants were dislodged and the house was restored to its owner. The "king" did not want to exchange his throne for a prison, but the police were inexorable.

It was established that the "king" was nobody but Joseph Szweczyk, an out of work impostor, and he was accordingly disposed of. But the peasants are said to be inflexible in their belief that he is their rightful monarch, and they await the hour when the machinations of the Republicans against him shall be defeated. Meantime, his exclusion from the throne and his deprivation of his sovereignty over them must be endured with patience as the will of an intractable Providence.

MERCHANTS OF S. A. URGED TO GET LICENSES

Santa Ana merchants and others who have not paid their city licenses for the third quarter of the year, today were warned by Ed Vegely, city clerk, that they have only three more days in which to pay before being declared delinquent.

The delinquent list will be established on July 15, Vegely said, and licenses not procured by that time will cost 10 per cent more than at the present time. A 10 per cent tax automatically takes effect at that time.

Earl Lentz, license inspector, said today that few persons had procured their new licenses up to and including yesterday but that the office was busy today with persons who desire to secure licenses before the last day.

BABIES BORN IN WAR TIME ARE DEFENDED

LONDON, July 12.—So persistent has been the talk in England about the "inferiority" of babies born during the war that women here feel called upon to rise in defense of such offspring. It is said by some mothers of war-time babies that the youngsters, now reaching conversational age, are actually handicapped by this pseudo scientific gossip. Many a child has returned home from school in tears, they say, after being called contemptuously by younger or older children a "stupid war-time child."

George Verity, chairman of the famous Charity Cross hospital, has entered a vigorous defense of the war years' babies. He challenges the headmaster of the Harrow Boys' school and others who have been critics of war-year babies to produce any real evidence that their contentions are founded upon fact.

No statement, he says, could be further from the truth than that which credits war babies with inferior brains. He knows many kiddies of both sexes born during the actual war years—hundreds were thus born in the great hospital that he heads or in various institutions with which he is associated—and he says that, if anything, these youngsters now are above rather than below the average.

Mr. Verity says that children born during periods of general mental stress have, if anything, a shade more chance of being mentally bright than children born during periods when minds are at ease and humanity, speaking generally, is comfortably lazy.

He says that if the mothers of war-time babies in America or elsewhere, unless, perhaps, in Germany, where for a time there was some actual shortage of nourishing food, will compare their offspring fairly with the kiddies of the commonplace, indolent years, they will find their own quite as mentally alert and even perhaps especially bright, and as physically strong. He wishes all the talk about inferior war-time babies might be stopped. He believes it may produce unfortunate psychological effects upon the young people to whom it refers.

South Americans Choose Paris To Secure Culture

PARIS, July 12.—Americans from the United States sometimes wonder why Paris pays so much attention to South Americans when the United States would seem to be more attractive in a business way.

La Journal, as patron of a big South American fete at the national opera recently, explained that if the French language and French culture are to hold their places in the world South America will be a big factor. Wealthy South Americans probably are as numerous as North Americans in Paris. They regard Paris as the world's intellectual and political capital, says Le Journal, while this is not true of Anglo-Saxons. Therefore, France's interest, it is argued, is to influence the 20,000,000 people of the South America, whose Latin temperament the French understand.

Briton To Cross Atlantic In His Bicycle Vessel

LONDON, July 12.—In a tiny, submarine-like steel vessel of his own construction, built during his spare time, William Oldham of Warrington, Lancashire, proposes to set out shortly on an adventurous voyage from Dover to New York. The boat, which is only 12 feet long, with a beam of three feet, will be propelled by a navigator with a pedal mechanism much like bicycles operating the two-bladed propeller. A "windmill" geared to the shaft will relieve him when the wind is fair. Two persons can be accommodated, although there won't be full-length sleeping quarters.

Erich Hagelacher, former holder of the world's 18.2 balling championship, has become an instructor at one of the New York billiard academies.

Ventura Co. Roads Total 600 Miles

Ventura county has 600 miles of county roads, according to a report just received by the National Automobile club from Charles W. Pettit, county highway engineer. This total is made up of 220 miles of high class pavement, 170 miles of standard gravel, 170 miles of graded earth roads with permanent culverts and bridges, the balance, 40 miles being earth roads as yet only partly improved.

JOB DAUGHTERS WILL INITIATE NEXT SATURDAY

The initiation degree will be conferred upon new members of the Santa Ana chapter, Order of Job's Daughters, next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, according to Charlotte Prichard, honored queen a large class is to be admitted, from indications.

At the meeting, Mrs. Mary E. Hinds, grand marshal of California, will be present to assist the girls in the ritualistic interpretation.

The Santa Ana Bethel was recently organized and the order has been acting under dispensation awaiting the granting of the charter. The charter is to be granted at the meeting of the Grand Council of the state in Long Beach late in September. Girls who join the Santa Ana Bethel before the charter is granted will be enrolled as charter members according to Mrs. Helen Kellogg, Bethel guardian.

The names of all the charter members will be engraved in gold on the original charter given the Santa Ana order.

The membership of the new Bethel here now exceeds 70. The girls eligible to join are the daughters, granddaughters, sisters and nieces of Master Masons between the ages of 13 and 20 years.

TUSTIN MAN HURT IN MACHINE CRASH

J. E. Hartfield, Laguna avenue, Tustin, received injuries of a minor nature at 6:30 o'clock last night, when the machine he was driving collided with a car operated by Cecil C. Beard, Tustin, at Sixth and B streets, Tustin, according to a report filed at the sheriff's office today.

Neither driver saw the approach of the other, it was said. Hartfield was removed to his home by passersby, according to a report filed by Beard.

Apache Trail At Phoenix Closed

The Apache trail between Phoenix and Globe, Ariz., is now closed indefinitely, according to a late report received from the touring department of the National Automobile club, and the advisable route between these two points is the superior highway, distance, 96 miles. Following is a later report of same: From Phoenix to Miami: First 24 miles, paved highway; balance excellent graded and graveled highway, with seven miles of pavement between Apache Junction and Superior Junction. From Miami to Globe, seven miles paved.

Stages May Take Place Of Trains

Southern Pacific Company has applied to the railroad commission for authority to discontinue operation of passenger trains on its Santa Paula and Ojai branches, and Southern Pacific Motor Transport company, a subsidiary, has applied to the commission for authority to operate auto stage service between Oxnard and Saugus via Santa Paula, and between Ventura and Santa Paula via Ojai, as a substitute for such discontinued train service. Southern Pacific Motor Transport company also requests permission of the railroad commission to lease the express privileges on its auto stages on those routes to American Railway Express company.

From present indications it will be up to the Yankees to uphold Greater New York's baseball supremacy this year. Neither the Giants nor the Robins is displaying the stuff of which championship teams are made.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia" Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.—Adv.

EXPECT BANK PERMIT ACTION BY NEXT WEEK

Action on the application of a group of Santa Ana men for permission to institute a new state bank in Santa Ana is anticipated within the next week, according to Clyde Downing, attorney for the group.

The application was filed several weeks ago with Will C. Wood, bank commissioner, and investigations by the commissioner have been under way to determine whether there is need here for another bank.

Pending decision by the bank commissioner, the group is quiet and is making no effort to increase the list of stockholders, Downing said. He intimated that if permission is given, the group will at once become active with plans for putting the financial institution over.

The application was signed by Col. S. H. Finley, John Knox, Dr. C. W. Ralston, Albert Hill, Clyde Downing and A. Z. Hansenjaeger. It is possible the bank will be located on East Fourth street, if it is organized.

ANGLER'S TIPS ARE GIVEN OUT BY AUTO CLUB

The following report of fishing districts near Independence, Calif., is supplied by the touring department of the National Automobile club: Water is still somewhat high but fishing is good. The best streams are Independence and Briggs creeks and best lakes are Flower, Bullfrog and East Lake. They are reached by pack trail from Independence or Greys Meadows. The best bait is worms and fly. Best fly—brown hackle. In the Bridgeport area, Robinson, Buckeye, Virginia and Dog Creeks are offering good fishing. The water is medium high. Best bait is salmon eggs. Best fly is hare ear. The West Walker is now good for spinner work and the fish run between five and ten pounds each. This run will last only about two weeks.

PROSPERITY OF GREAT BRITAIN BARBERS DROPS

LONDON, July 12.—The shingling trade isn't what it used to be, if the barbers are to be believed. When the vogue for shorter hair hit England the hairdressers revelled in prosperity. The standard price for a man's haircut at most places is a shilling, and a shampoo costs from one shilling up to four or five times as much.

But the lowest price for bobbing or shingling a woman's hair (not the first operation of shearing long tresses, but the mere business of keeping them trimmed) seemed to be about three shillings. Shampoos and other attentions were in proportion, and many a household budget was sadly dislocated by the necessity of fitting in, every 10 days or so, an item of at least 10 shillings for milady's hairdressing.

But prosperity, as it often does, brought its own ending. Friend husband's shaving mirror was called into play, and milady was called to her own shingling. Whereupon, so one is informed, rates began to come down with a rush, and this week London's newspapers announced with glee that "the shingling shingle has arrived."

It also is reported that the barbers are discarding the hauteur that was theirs when their engagement books were filled, and clients booked shingles four or five days ahead. Nevertheless, the slump cannot yet be too serious, for only last week a local judge, in refusing to accept the plea of a hairdresser that times were bad, recommended the man to start a bobbing and shingling section, after which he soon would have "a queue of silly women outside his shop."

British Girls Wed Younger Than Before War

LONDON, British girls are marrying younger than before the war, but men at a later age, according to statistics by the registrar general. After the war many women married between the ages of 25 and 30. Thousands of marriageable girls lost their sweethearts during the war. Figures show that the majority of brides are now between 20 and 25.

French Budget In Need Of Big Sum

PARIS, July 12.—The French taxpayers will be called upon to produce upward of the equivalent of $1,680,000,000 in the coming year, according to budget estimates made public by Premier and Finance Minister Poincare. For the second time since he took over the country's finances, M. Poincare is presenting a balanced budget, with an estimated surplus of more than 600,000,000 francs. He takes an optimistic view of the improvement of the financial situation in the last twelve months, but adds: "Our economic troubles cannot be expected to disappear as by magic. Our recovery must be the work of will and perseverance. Despite economies as a result of the transfer of a large part of the floating debt payments to the autonomous fund, the estimated government expenditures for the coming year exceed those for 1927 by nearly 2,000,000 francs."

The premier attributes this to the urgency of increasing the salaries and pensions of the nation's 1,000,000 civil servants because of the high cost of living and to the larger war budget necessitated by the new organization of the army.

Son Of British Premier Writer

LONDON, July 12.—The writing habit seems to be epidemic at No. 10 Downing street, the official home of the prime minister. Under the name of Martin Huxtingtree, Oliver Baldwin, the Liberal son of Premier Baldwin, wrote a novel called "Kinyetz," and recently a playlet of his, called "The Fog," was presented. So at least one member of the Baldwin family is keeping up the literary tradition set by the Asquiths. Huxtingtree is the name of the birthplace of Mrs. Stanley Baldwin, the author's mother.

Thirteen-year-old Hulda Fornell couldn't even say "Merry Christmas" in English when she arrived from Sweden on Christmas eve four years ago. PROGRESS ON MANCHESTER ROAD IS TOLD BY SPEAKERS AT MONTHLY MEETING IN ANAHEIM

Manchester boulevard in its progress from the mountains to the sea will follow the plans now being worked out by county planners to avoid the traffic congestion of the large cities and to pass through the cities in the outskirts, according to Dr. Walter Bingham, of Anaheim, who spoke at the monthly meeting of the Manchester Highway association at the new Greek theater in the Anaheim city park last night.

All haste should be taken to complete the boulevard through Orange county, as business is rapidly following the highway south and east of Los Angeles, Dr. Bingham said.

The boulevard is assured as far as Orange county, according to William Schumacher, county supervisor, another speaker at the meeting. That the remainder of the extension depends entirely upon the people of Anaheim, was his assertion.

Schumacher suggested that plans be formulated for bringing the road through Anaheim on Palm avenue, already known as a part of the harbor boulevard from Newport Beach to Fullerton.

Nat Neff, county engineer, presented a map showing the number of acres and the valuation of the acreage included in a probable assessment district for putting the road through. Neff also spoke briefly outlining the advantages of the highway. Neff stated that latest advices from Los Angeles officials placed the actual construction date for the highway as some time in January, 1928.

Other speakers on the program included Carl Leonard, of Anaheim; A. W. Price, city manager of Anaheim; Leonard Evans, vice president of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce; Dr. H. A. Johnston, chamber of commerce member, and Samuel Dudley, president of the Manchester association.

About 200 persons attended the session.

Paris Boys Build Lindbergh Planes

PARIS, July 12.—Lindbergh has changed the course of life for Paris children. They are building airplanes. Their great summer sport has been long sailing boats, chiefly on the fountain basins of Luxembourg and Tuileries gardens. Big and little boys and even the girls make trips to Le Bourget airfield now to get ideas for designs and to worship the big machines that remind them of their American air hero.

Airplanes are in the toy store windows. Airplane kites are having a new vogue. The really chic thing, however, is to build a plane with a twisted rubber to turn the propeller shaft, and "The Spirit of St. Louis" and "NX 211" scrawled over it.

Marshal Foch's Name To Live On

PARIS, July 12.—Marshal Foch's name is to live on, although there is no male line. The only son of the commander in chief of all the allied armies, a lieutenant, was killed in the war.

Colonel Fournier, husband of one of the marshal's two daughters, has been accorded the right, by presidential decree, to give his children the name Fournier-Foch. This authorization was given by the Council of State, at the request of the minister of justice, but had to be made effective by President Doumergue.

EMPLOYMENT GAINS

LONDON, July 12.—The secretary to the Ministry of Labor announces that on June 13 the total number of persons on the registers of employment exchanges in Great Britain was 1,028,700. This was 60,940 less than a week before, and 601,239 less than a year before, when the figures were affected by the coal stoppage.

JARDINE URGES CO-OPERATION IN MARKETING

RENO, Nev., July 11.—Co-operation in marketing and efficient distribution of market information will eventually spell new prosperity for American agriculture in general, William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, said in an address here today.

The secretary was addressing the agricultural extension congress of 11 western states, meeting in a four-day session.

"Mass marketing and availability of general market information is the secret of the success of such huge organizations in business as the Ford Motor company, General Electric company and many others," Jardine declared.

"We want to organize so that the farmer and the cattle man can know their markets and sell collectively. The farmer cannot expect to achieve the highest selling efficiency on the small individual basis," Jardine said.

Soviet Agent In Rome Sentenced

ROME, July 12.—A publicity agent has been sentenced by the fascist military tribunal to eight years and seven months imprisonment for having distributed manifestos of the third international inciting people to civil war. Three other persons, all Communists, were condemned by the tribunal to six years imprisonment for having distributed leaflets issued by subversive political parties.

RELIGION BAN ALTERED

SANTIAGO, July 12.—The decree abolishing instruction in religion in the state schools in Chile has been modified by a new decree, which permits religious instruction in all schools dependent on the ministry of education. Such instruction will not be given at the expense of the state, but one hour a week will be assigned to it in the school time tables.

Good Water for Babies' Health

... This, Authorities Agree, is Vital.
There are Three Tests to Guide You.

YOUR baby's health is greatly influenced by the water it consumes daily. Doctors say this is most important. For water is a primary source of health.

But water must first be pure—and that's not all. It should also contain natural mineral salts and be "good to taste." Authorities say good water must conform with these three requirements—these three tests of healthfulness:

1. Purity,
2. Minerals,
3. "Good to Taste."

Make sure these requirements are present. Purity protects existing good health. Natural minerals in a water make it neutral in that it neither adds nor detracts from the normal mineral supply of the body. And "good to taste"—this is nature's final stamp of approval on healthful water!

Mothers often write us in praise of Arrowhead Spring Water. Read the letters below. Their experience will be yours also!

Gentlemen:

"Two years and three months ago God gave us the purest, finest and most healthy little body in the world to care for."

"Consequently we felt that nothing but the purest, finest and most healthy foods should go into that baby body."

We investigated Arrowhead Water and found that it met our requirements. When baby Herbert was twelve days old we brought him home from the hospital and from that day he has had no water except Arrowhead to drink.

When he was eight months old we took him to San Francisco and his Arrowhead Water went with him. We bottled it and kept it in our tourist ice box.

Is not then, this picture of the purest, finest and most healthy little boy a good advertisement for the purest, finest and most healthy water?

Gentlemen:

"We have two little girls in our family and by having Arrowhead Water within reach of water, Mother doesn't have to wait on them—they can and do help themselves."

Laxatives are almost unknown in our family and colds very infrequent. For this there is only one answer—we drink plenty of Arrowhead Water.

We prefer to use fresh, rather than storage eggs—likewise we prefer the fresh, crystal clear Arrowhead Water to that stored in reservoirs.

One of my friends objected to the extra expense of buying water. I held up a glass of water from the faucet and one of Arrowhead. "Which will you take?" I asked her. The contrast was evident. She chose Arrowhead, limpid and sparkling. "To see is to believe," I laughed. "To taste is to convince," she replied. Signed—Mrs. Myrtle J. Callahan, 14 Bonito Ave., Long Beach, Cal.

CITY TAXES TO BE INCREASED TO MEET COST OF NEW LIGHTS

Council Discovers That No Assessment District Can Be Created Legally

NORTH MAIN WANTS NEW TYPE GLOBES

City Engineer Instructed To Draw Up Plans for Paving on Poinsettia

That no assessment districts for maintaining the cost of ornamental light systems in Santa Ana can be created for the coming year and that the city as a whole must carry the expense, was the decision reached by the city council in session last night. This will mean that the general tax rate must be raised accordingly to take care of this item. An increase in the tax rate is possible under an act adopted by the last legislature increasing the tax rate limit for cities of the fifth class from $1 to $1.25 on the $100 assessed valuation.

Although the council is in favor of establishing the district form of tax for the lighting systems, last night's discussion revealed the fact that it would be impossible to organize such districts because the tax rate for the coming year must be fixed before they could be put into operation. In the following year, however, it is the opinion of the council that the lighting tax can be levied on the district plan according to the provisions of a law passed at the last session of the state legislature. The council's policy in the future will be to adopt this plan.

Pursuing the lighting question further, the council granted a petition of property owners on North Main street for installing the new type of ornamental lights to replace the older type now in use. Clyde Jenken, city engineer, estimates that the new lights will be completed and in use in eight to 10 weeks.

Turning its attention to the question of paving, the council authorized the city engineer to draw up plans and specifications for laying five inch asphaltic concrete on Poinsettia street from Sixth to Washington on Vance street from Garfield east to Poinsettia, on Stafford street from Garfield to the east line of the Southern Pacific right of way, on Brown street from Garfield east to Poinsettia and on

CITY BOND AND FINANCE CORP. READY TO OPEN

With the opening tomorrow of a branch of the City Bond and Finance company, of Los Angeles, in Santa Ana, at 107 West Sixth street, Santa Anans interested in investments on the New York Stock exchange will be given a service they will find of great benefit, according to Edward L. Flannigan, Santa Ana, who has been appointed resident manager.

The company has opened beautiful offices in the Santa Ana hotel building. Its quotation board is ready for the public, Flannigan said.

"The purpose of the company opening offices here is to be of service to Santa Ana people interested in investments and what we have to offer is the best in service. We are investment counselors, just as needed as the insurance man is in his field of service."

Leading stocks on the New York exchange will be quoted on the board several times during the day for the benefit of investors.

The company will have a capable statistical department, service of which will be gratis to the public. It was said, and it was announced that no solicitations of investments would be made on the floor of the office.

WORD MYSTERY IS SOLVED BY R. C. SMEDLEY

Thinks Reduction in Tax Has Something to Do With Spelling of Melon

What does income tax reduction have to do with the misspelling of watermelon on roadside fruit stands?

R. C. Smedley, local Y. M. C. A. secretary, thinks he has the answer. Smedley says he's noted an alarming increase in word bungling this summer and that watermelon in particular is suffering. He's rather worried about it, too, because he thinks they're particularly good this season.

"Drive along the highway and notice how many signs on the fruitstands spell the word with two 'l's, me-l-l-o-n. I don't know whether it's just an epidemic, or whether Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, is to blame," said Smedley, who suggested that the popularity of Mellon since income taxes have been reduced and the treasury has piled up a surplus, might be the cause of the malady. "And think of all the paint that's wasted in putting in that extra 'l,'" he continued.

However, even the newspapers are among the offenders this year. Smedley has observed. Should you say "dries" or "drys" in referring to prohibition workers? Many papers print the word "drys," especially in the headlines, whereas the dictionary says it should be "dries," Smedley said.

But the roadside signs seem to make the most frequent errors in spelling, who notices that the word "fryers" is written "friers" by poultry growers who wish to attract the speeding motorist.

Nevertheless, a good spring chicken or a nice rabbit is appreciated by the "Y" secretary either way it's spelled.

And watermelon tastes mighty good even though it may be spelled with two 'l's.

GREEN TRASH BOXES REMOVED NEWCOMERS THOUGHT THEY WERE FOR MAIL COMPANY FAILS AGREEMENT

As a result of action recently taken by C. D. Swanner, city attorney, newcomers will no longer drop their valuable mail into the large green trash receptacles which once dotted the city's street corners. Residents of Santa Ana are just beginning to notice that the green boxes have disappeared.

Swanner has had the 45 offending cans stored in a local warehouse, having attached them as property of the American Outdoor Advertising company, of Los Angeles, because of its asserted failure to live up to its agreement made when the trash receivers were placed here over a year ago. The company agreed to pay the city one dollar per month for each can stationed on the streets. In return it was to have the privilege of selling advertising space on the receptacles. According to Swanner, however, the company has never paid a dollar to the city. Consequently, he has removed the cans.

The company has apparently abandoned its Los Angeles office and the city attorney has been unable to get in touch with its representatives there. At present he is trying to get in communication with the San Diego office of the concern in an attempt to reach a satisfactory agreement regarding the situation.

Present indications are, however, that the limitation mail boxes will not reappear on the city's streets.

CALLAHAN DEFENDS HIS TITLE TONIGHT

CHICAGO, July 12.—If the opinion of the wisecracks of pugmug means anything, Mushy Callahan's title as junior welterweight champion, may be endangered tonight when he steps into the ring with Sergeant Sammy Baker. The fight is scheduled to go 10 rounds and if it does, Callahan's chances of winning will be better than Baker's.

Baker appears to have caught the fancy of the gymnasium fans, however, and they are offering 6 and 7 to 5 that Sammy will beat the California boy.

The bout is being promoted by James Mullen for the benefit of the American Legion. Profits, if any, will be used to send disabled soldiers to the Legion convention in Paris.

THREE TO GIVE TALKS AT ART MEETING HERE

With three noted speakers and a long list of notable people present, the reception at St. Ann's Inn Thursday evening by the Laguna Beach Art association will start the ball rolling in the direction of a new $35,000 art gallery to be built in Laguna Beach on a promontory which can be seen for miles.

One of the speakers will be Mrs. Guy Bates Post, who, as Adeline Ritchie, was a musical comedy star of the first magnitude. Mrs. Post is living in Laguna Beach during the absence of her husband on a starring tour of South Africa, and she has interested herself in the building of a gallery for the town. Mrs. Post will talk on the need of the gallery and the good it will do.

The Rev. Percy Wise Clarkson, rector of St. Francis by the Sea, Laguna Beach, and former rector of Trinity church, Orange, will speak of the service which the art gallery renders to the public.

The president of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, Clyde Downing, will give an idea of what the business man thinks of the art association, of what the association is doing for the whole of Orange county through its school exhibitions and its lectures.

The talks will be short but timely. They will be given to acquaint the guests of the evening with what the Laguna Beach Art association is doing for the whole of the county.

Seventy-five paintings have been donated to the new art gallery fund by artist members of the Laguna Beach Art association. These pictures have been framed and were hung today in St. Ann's inn. They will remain there for a week.

Over 1600 invitations have been sent to friends of the association. President William A. Griffith, pointed out that any one interested in art is invited to be present Thursday evening.

It is the intention of the artists to secure donations for the gallery. The amount subscribed will entitle the subscriber to any painting which is not marked above that sum.

Twenty-five per cent of the marked price may be paid at the time of subscribing and 25 per cent every 60 days until the full amount is paid in. The paintings must be left in St. Ann's inn until the close of the exhibition, which will be one week.

There will be pictures available from the brushes of men and women famous in the world of art. There will be a wide range of prices so that the lover of good pictures who cannot afford a big donation can still have great pleasure in his purchase.

Over $15,000 worth of paintings will be on view Thursday evening.

SAYS FORD ACTED OF OWN FREE WILL

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Henry Ford acted entirely of his own free will in his recent statement of apology and retraction for attacks on Jews published in his Dearborn Independent, and set about correcting the situation as soon as he learned of the attacks, being made, Joseph Calla, special agent of the department of justice, said in a statement today.

Calla told a new version of the story of how Ford came to make his remarkable statement. He quoted Ford as having said to him in conversations when the matter was first brought to his attention, that he was for the Jews; that he had thousands of them in his employ, and that he would employ thousands more.

"The Jew is essential not only to America, but to the world in general," Calla quoted Ford as saying.

S. A. INSURANCE AGENTS ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Completing a year of activity in excellent financial condition, and with only two members failing to attend the session, the Santa Ana Association of Insurance Agents held its annual meeting yesterday, with a luncheon at the Rose Arbor.

The newly elected officers are Clifford H. Phillips, president; J. Wiley Harris, vice-president; T. D. Knights, secretary; and Mac O. Robbins, Paul Ragan, John A. Henderson and W. B. Martin, members of the executive committee.

In reviewing the past year, retiring president John A. Henderson briefly summed up the work of the association and its helpfulness to the members and the community. Particular appreciation was expressed for the efforts of the school insurance committee, which has cooperated with the Board of Education in working out methods of insurance resulting in a substantial improvement in coverage at a considerable saving in cost to the taxpayers. Members of the association's committee, headed by C. E. Prior have given freely of their time and knowledge with no cost whatever to the school board the report said.

The work of the fire prevention committee headed by E. M. Sundquist was also complimented. Henderson also called attention to the growth of the National Automobile club, represented entirely by insurance men, to a position of 50,000 members in three years.

A piece of publicity which has brought nationwide comment was the miniature insurance policies distributed at the "Home Products Banquet" of the Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce. The Agents Association printed several hundred of these as a reminder that insurance should be bought at home, and various insurance trade journals all over the United States have given the little policies many columns of publicity. The policies have been reproduced in full in a number of the trade papers, and as a result the Home Products dinner of Santa Ana has gained a wide fame. Requests for sample copies of the policies are still coming in to the Agents association from other similar organizations as far east as the Atlantic seaboard, letters from Florida, New York and Indiana being read at yesterday's meeting.

That the local insurance men are strong supporters of the California and the National Associations of Insurance agents was indicated in the reports of both President Henderson and Secretary Mac O. Robbins, and by the further fact that the members present voted unanimously for an increase in dues which would result in further financial co-operation with the parent organizations.

COUNTY FAIR DETAILS ARE RELATED AT C. OF C. MEET

H. A. Lake Believes This Year's Event Will Be Best Held in District

HORSE SHOW TO BE BIG FEATURE

Fernandez Urges Various Communities to Forget Their Petty Differences

"When the communities of Orange county lay aside their petty jealousies, this section will progress at a rapid pace. We have everything here in resources. This back-biting between cities and sections is only narrowness."

With such declarations, Bob Fernandez, president of the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce, at the meeting last night, pledged the junior division to spreading the gospel of good will over the county.

The subject came up when H. A. Lake, president of the county fair board, in telling of the plans for this year's exhibition, stated that the location of the fair grounds, half way between Santa Ana and Anaheim, on the state highway, had been the most important factor in the success of the fair because now it was felt to belong to the entire county.

Fernandez asked the members of the junior chamber to bend every effort toward removing the barriers that separate the sections of the county and impair their mutual progress.

Lake made the principal address of the evening, disclosing plans for the county fair, September 5 to 10, which he promised to be the greatest that has ever been held, even surpassing that of last year, which broke all records. He told of the plans for entertainment, exhibits, advertising and financing. Five acres will be under canvas this year. More exhibit space has been sold to date, about two months before the fair, than was sold altogether last year, he said.

One of the big features of the fair will be the horse show, Lake stated. Eighty new stalls are being built. Roy Baker, wealthy horseman of Saugus, has contracted to have charge of the rodeo, with assurances that 150 head of stock will be used.

The famous horse, Edna May King, the only two-time winner of the Kentucky derby, will be entered at the fair by Reyl English, of Pomona.

The Indian motif is to be used in the decorations for the fair, it was learned. Indians of Yuma, Pala and Soboba are to build a real Indian village in one of the groves at the fair grounds, it was disclosed by J. R. Hunt, manager of the fair. There they will hold their pow wows, actually living in their village during fair week.

A tent is to be provided for the women this year for the first time. Mrs. Alex Nelson, of Santa Ana, is in charge.

The work on the fair grounds was started this week. Workmen are to erect 2500 more bleacher seats.

Because of the location of the fair grounds at the junction of three highways and within easy traveling distance of 2,000,000 people, the Orange county fair is rapidly developing into one of the biggest in the west, Lake said.

DICTIONARY TO BE READY AFTER 48 YEARS WORK

OXFORD, England, July 12.—It is expected that this year will record the successful completion of the greatest lexicographical undertaking the world has ever known, the New English dictionary, after more than 48 years of constant work.

Already the magnum opus of Samuel Johnson is referred to as "an incomplete piece of hack work" and his definition of the word "network" "anything reticulated, with interstices between the interstices"—is cited as an example of how not to write dictionaries.

It was in 1879 that Sir James Murray started work on the Oxford dictionary, as it is familiarly known. It was first proposed in 1857 by Dean Trench in his noted "Study of Words."

The main feature throughout the work has been to select and gather quotations to illustrate fully the historic development of every English word and its minutest shades of meaning, and for this purpose all English books written before 1600 have been read by scholars all over the world, as well as thousands of books written since 1600.

The nearest approach to the great German lexicon of the brothers Grimm, who also wrote fairy tales in idle moments. It was begun in 1853, but after 69 years it had reached only its 13th volume, down to WEG.

Even with its supplements, Little's French dictionary is a small affair compared with the Oxford dictionary. Students find that Webster's dictionary cannot be compared to the New English dictionary for scope and thoroughness.

Most of the work on the Oxford dictionary has been done in the Scriptorium, a little tin tabernacle erected in Dr. Murray's own garden at Mill Hill, and in 1891 taken over by Oxford university.

When the editor started work he had more than 5,000,000 quotations at hand and since then has handled countless numbers.

of the junior chamber of commerce was asked.

The entertainment for the meeting was provided by the pupils of the Claire Coutant school of dancing. Ernest Winbiger arranged the program. The performers gave songs and dances. Those who took part were Grace Hircoven, Margaret Ellen Rothenahl, Marjorie Carpenter, Thelma Trickey, Betty Bondley and Lorraine Turk. Miss Laurabelle Bryant was the accompanist.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

The tom-tom of the Indians, that insistent pulsation of the drums that carries its message for unbelievable distances and has never been satisfactorily solved by science, forms the basis for "Drums of the Desert" adapted from Zane Grey's romantic story "Desert Bound" which reaches the Yost Broadway theater screen tonight.

In it is told the tale of the Navajos and of the liquid gold that underlay their sacred shrines in the Arizona desert, the story of a white man's conspiracy to defraud them of those lands and of the frustration of that conspiracy by another white man. Underlying, as in the original, are the tom-toms of the Indian—those incessant drums calling the red men first to council and then to war against the encroachment of an enemy.

Through the story moves the heroic figure of John Curry as played by Warner Baxter, friend of the Indian. Opposite Baxter is Paramount's new European player, Marietta Millner, fresh from triumphs abroad, whose first intimate glimpse of American life was on the Navajo Indian reservation where "Drums of the Desert" was made.

Others who comprise the cast are Ford Sterling, featured comedian, in the role of Painless Perkins, a desert faker; Wallace MacDonald as Will Newton, leader of the land bandits; George Irving as Professor Mantion, an archeologist; Bernard Siegel, Chief Brave Bear; Heinie Conklin as Hi-Lo, Perkins' partner; and the Navajos themselves.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Lon Chaney—man of a thousand faces—has given the screen a new disguise. He has disguised a human soul instead of a human face—this is the secret of "Mr. Wu." Chaney transformed himself into a Chinaman in the stupendous new drama now playing at the West Coast-Walker theater; he used his uncanny tricks of make-up, of course—but the significant fact was not his face, painted to portray one of another race.

His walk, his every little action—in fact, his very personality, turned Chinese for the picture. It is said that he did it by studying Chinese customs, philosophy, literature, until he actually thought from a Chinese standpoint.

After seeing "Mr. Wu" this is not difficult to believe. Is it necessary to say more about Fanchon and Marco's presentation than that Jane Green features it? Jane has more than the Smith brothers have tough drops, and she radiates it so thoroughly that the audience catches the spirit and becomes saturated with it. Jane is Jane, and is there with all that it takes to put one's personality across the footlights.

YOST THEATER
"The Red Kimono" is now playing at the Yost theater. White slavery is not an easy subject to discuss from any standpoint and yet the shameful traffic in girlhood is one of the most serious evils society has to contend with.

"The Red Kimono" was "lifted" almost in its entirety from the records of the Los Angeles superior court, and the story of Gabrielle—"Gabrielle" of "The Red Kimono," is a masterpiece, both from the standpoint of a thrilling, never-to-be-forgotten drama, and as a daring humane and tender plea for "another chance" for those who have found the current of life too strong for them.

TEMPLE THEATER

Off the coast of French Guiana in South America is Devil's Island, the French penal colony, perhaps the least known land in all the civilized world today. Here is the prison home of France's life prisoners, dogs of the earth, who are doomed to a living death on this island from which there is no escape.

Now Chadwick Pictures corporation introduces what it is expected will prove a distinct novelty in screen dramas in its production of the Leah Baird story, "Devil's Island," starring Pauline Frederick, which is playing at the Temple Theater tonight and Wednesday.

Herriot Seeks To Aid Writers

PARIS, July 12.—Edouard Herriot, minister of public instruction, has introduced in the chamber of deputies a bill against the "pirating" of literary efforts. Under the terms of his bill the works of writers would be inviolate for 50 years after an author's death and for a half century thereafter producers and publishers must pay six per cent tax to a general fund.

This fund, to be administered by officials chosen by the state, shall be used for the amelioration of adverse conditions among writers and artists. Article I of the measure provides that "the objects of the fund are to aid by allowances, prizes and traveling scholarships, purchase of works and other means the works of writers, scientists and artists to found institutions in favor of letters and the arts and sciences, notably municipal theaters and institutions of popular education; to aid French undertakings for the publishing or republishing of works presenting literary, scientific or artistic interest and to assure protection of the rights of authors and their works."

S. A. BEAUTIES TO COMPETE IN CONTEST SOON

Announcement was made today by Manager C. E. Walker of the West Coast-Walker theater, that the local elimination will be held at the West Coast-Walker theater early next week for the National American Beauty pageant.

All entrants from Santa Ana or vicinity should fill out entry blanks which may be obtained at the theater. Five representatives will be selected to compete with the representatives from the Anaheim district, embracing northern Orange county. The final contest between the district winners will be held at the West Coast-Walker theater in the latter part of next week, for the naming of the official "Miss Orange County."

Similar contests are being held all over Southern California, and the girls finally selected to represent the 10 counties are to appear at the Metropolitan theater, Los Angeles on the night of July 25. These county representatives will be sent to San Francisco accompanied by a chaperone of their own selection at the expense of a Los Angeles newspaper, to compete against winners from the northern counties, for the honor of being designated as "Miss California" and "Miss Southern California," respectively. July 28 has been set as the final date for this state-wide contest.

The California winners will be sent to Atlantic City to vie for the title of "Miss America" September 6 to 10.

All prospective candidates in the local contest are urged to file their entry blanks immediately at the West Coast-Walker.

Rheims Schoolboy Gives Two Francs For Flood Relief

PARIS, July 12.—"For the victims of the Mississippi, a schoolboy of Rheims, two francs." This contribution of eight cents, saved son by son by a child in the city of the shelled cathedral, brought tears to the eyes of Ambassador Herriot. It was the smallest donation for relief.

Blemished Skin Clears Up Quickly

Sunshine and wind are not always so kind to us. When dainty complexions and hands are exposed to their burning and roughening effect they become freckled, tanned or discolored; usually in spots. A minute's care will whiten the skin again. Simply squeeze the juice of two lemons into a three-ounce bottle of Orchard White, which you can get from your nearest store, and massage the complexion and hands with this lotion. You will be delighted with the way it clears your skin and revives its youthful charm.—Adv.

PIMPLES ITCHED AND BURNED

Face and Hands Affected.
Healed by Cuticura.

"My face and hands were affected with pimples that itched and burned. The pimples were hard but not very large. They itched badly, causing me to scratch, and scratching caused eruptions. They troubled me so that I could not do any work, and caused disfigurement."

"I used other remedies but they did not help me. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I purchased more, and after using about four cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Sarah Gerba, 1456 73rd Ave., Oakland, Calif., Feb. 12, 1927.

INCREASE TAX TO MEET COST OF NEW LIGHTS

Sixth street from Garfield east to Poinsettia. Jenken pointed out that eighty per cent of this territory adjoins the Southern Pacific right of way and that the railroad company will be expected to bear its proportion of the paving cost. The council set no definite date for beginning the work of laying the paving.

The council also granted a petition of the property owners on Logan street from Washington avenue north to Smith's addition for paving this section with five inch asphalt.

To Acquire Title

The council directed C. D. Swanner, city attorney, and Clyde Jenken, city engineer, to acquire title from the Southern Pacific company to 200 feet of property east from Poinsettia street on Stafford street. Condemnation proceedings under the Matton act are expected to give the city title to this property, after which this portion of Stafford street will be paved under the provisions of the act of 1911.

The council will re-open bids for the southwest sewer district number 130 as a result of an error in the contract awarded to C. S. Krulley of Los Angeles. Krulley, believe the contract to be unsatisfactory, due to a technical error. The board will initiate new proceedings and the contract will be awarded again.

The council denied the application of L. H. Lucas for permission to install a lunch wagon on East Third street next to the Pickwick stage depot. No reason was given but it is felt that the council regards the proposed wagon as not in keeping with the character of the city's streets.

The application of B. A. Grimes for the right to construct a two story stucco warehouse and apartment building on the northwest corner of Vance and Lacy streets was referred to the city planning commission.

$500 Worth Of Teeth Lost By S. F. Salesman

"HOBO HONEYMOON" COMES TO TRAGIC END AS GROOM SHOT BY RAILROAD SLEUTH

SAN BERNARDINO, July 12.—A "hobo honeymoon" came to a tragic end here yesterday, with the death of C. L. Crane, 23, victim of an encounter with a railroad officer on a freight train, on which the youth and his bride were stealing a ride to Los Angeles.

In the desert wastes of the Mojave near Pilegah, far from the Iowa town where he and Gladys Crane began their strange marital trip in a box car, the youth was fatally wounded when he and nine hobos attempted to escape following their arrest at Bagdad late last night on vagrancy charges.

The prisoners were being held in the caboose of the train which had stopped at Pilegah, enroute to Barstow. Crane asked for water and when Special Officer C. I. Caldwell opened the door. The youth made a menacing gesture with his hand in his overall pocket and ordered the officer not to move.

When Caldwell failed to comply Crane made a lunge for him and the two tumbled to the ground. Crane was shot through the abdomen twice and in the general melee that followed his bride suffered probably internal injuries.

The youth died in the general hospital here following an operation while Mrs. Crane was reported to be in a serious condition suffering from shock.

Other than that the youth and his bride were married somewhere in Iowa and started to Los Angeles via box cars, the police were unable to obtain any further information because of Mrs. Crane's condition.

Caldwell was released pending an inquest which will be held into Crane's death.

The nine hobos are being held as witnesses.

AMERICA LEADS WORLD IN USE OF TIME PIECE

PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—Man never would have invented the clock had not the value of his time necessitated an instrument for the exact measurement of the hours.

Development of the timepiece has kept pace down the centuries with the increased value of time, according to Warner S. Hays, secretary of the Clock Manufacturers' association of America.

"In old Rome's heyday of luxury and leisure, the sun dial, earliest device for measuring the hours was deemed quite adequate," said Hays. "In the middle ages, the artistic sand-glass held vogue. Alfred the Great of England used graduated candles, the burning of which told the passing of time."

"Early watches were made in curious shapes such as pears, skulls, purses and crosses. Clocks frequently were made in the form of lanterns. It was not until the discovery of the balance wheel in 1658, by which the mainspring unwinds itself evenly and regularly, that they could be relied on to record the correct time."

"America leads the world in the number of its clocks for the reason that the average worker's time is nearly three and a half times as valuable as the European worker's. American houses are far better supplied with reliable clocks than are those abroad. Today the prosperous American usually has a clock in every room of his home, whereas a century ago there was but one for every three or four families."

The Legationnaires also voted to hold the next annual convention in May or June instead of in August as at present. The time and place selections will be supported by the third area committee in the 1927 convention at Santa Barbara, August 2, it was agreed.

MADERA, Calif., July 12.—Stockton was endorsed as the convention city for the 1928 state convocation of the American Legion in the annual caucus of the third area of the Legion of California held in Madera.

The Legationnaires also voted to hold the next annual convention in May or June instead of in August as at present. The time and place selections will be supported by the third area committee in the 1927 convention at Santa Barbara, August 2, it was agreed.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Ill health of two out of every five American workers who fall sick annually is due to the food they eat. A full dinner pail doesn't mean much except to politicians, according to Dr. James M. Booher, in an address here.

"Muscular work is done at health expense if the food calories do not more than equal the energy units spent during the worker's day," said Dr. Booher. "A steel worker expends about 2.45 calories or units of heat, for every rivet he drives. If he fails to eat the foods that will give him this amount, he saps his strength, and illness results."

"For one hour's work the miner requires the expenditure of a minimum of 68 calories; the carpenter, the bricklayer, and plasterer about the same. In each case the correlation of food constituents is equally important. Vigorous labor on excess fat generates too great heat."

HELP FOR SICK WOMEN

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Restored the Health of Thousands

Brooklyn, New York.—Mrs. G. Hegmann of 228 Schaeffer St., was in a run-down condition and could not do her housework. She could not sleep at night. Her story is not an unusual one. Thousands of women find themselves in a similar condition at some time in their lives. "I found your advertisement in my letter box," wrote Mrs. Hegmann, "and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got better." Mrs. Hegmann also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation, with good results. She says, "I am recommending your medicines to all I know who have symptoms the same as mine, and to others whom I think it will help. You may use my statement as a testimonial, and I will answer any letters sent to me by women who would like information regarding your medicines."

There are women in your state—perhaps in your town—who have written letters similar to this one telling how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.

AWARD A CUT IN RATES FOR CAL. SHIPPERS

California shippers of butter, eggs, cheese and dressed poultry will save a great many thousands of dollars per year through the action of the railroad commission in ordering the Southern Pacific company, the Atchafalpa, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway company, Union Pacific system and other major rail line carriers, operating within the state, to reduce the charges for refrigerating those commodities, for intrastate shipment, on or before Sept. 1, 1927.

The present refrigeration charges vary from $30 to $55 per car, according to the length of haul and the territory traversed. The railroad commission has ordered the rates reduced upon the basis of the cost of ice used. The result will be that the charges on a carload of butter, eggs, cheese or dressed poultry will vary from a few dollars per car to a maximum of approximately $21 per car, according to the amount of ice required by the refrigeration. Ice will be furnished by the carriers at a cost of $4.50 per ton at all points in California, except in the Imperial, Coachella and Palo Verde valleys, where the cost will be $6.50 per ton.

The decision of the commission was rendered following a complaint against all the railroads filed by the Pacific States Butter, Eggs, Cheese and Poultry association, an organization composed of the principal producers, manufacturers and distributors of dairy and poultry products, located in the states of California, Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Nevada.

The charges ordered by the commission will place shipments of butter, eggs, cheese and dressed poultry in California on substantially the same basis as are enjoyed by shippers located in the states east of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Nevada and Arizona. The last five named states now have substantially the same refrigeration charges as California, but after the commission's order becomes effective the California shippers will enjoy lower rates than are effective in the other states on the Pacific slope.

M. C. Linderman and his brother, Francis B. Linderman, of Hollywood, entertained a house party of friends in their new cottage on Challen Isle. The young people enjoying the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Savage, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Parrish, R. L. Parrish and H. C. Stine, all of Hollywood.

W. W. Hodgkins and family and W. B. Hodgkins and wife, of Inglewood, will spend the summer on Channel Isle, the former in their cottage on the north side, and the latter in the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Steffensen, of San Pedro.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Easten, of Placentia, are enjoying week-ends in their charming new beach cottage on Crystal avenue.

Mrs. Kate Roberts is spending the summer here with various members of her family joining her at intervals. Those who spent the past week-end here were Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Waugh and two sons, of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. Weller Noble and son and daughter, who have been living in San Francisco but who have recently taken up their residence in Pasadena. Miss Daisy Roberts, a frequent visitor to the island, is now enjoying a vacation in the northern part of California which will cover a period of a month or more.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Eames, of Los Angeles, occupied their Channel Isle home over the weekend.

Dr. Warren F. Fox and family, of Pasadena, were week-end visitors to their home on Abalone avenue.

Movie Chatterbox

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — For four years Ernie Johnson was just a prop boy. He wanted to do something more—but didn't seem to know what it was nor how to go about it.

All of a sudden Ernie was transformed from a prop boy into an actor. The change was so sudden that he didn't quite know what to make of it. Now he is content—the big things are coming his way.

This is the way it all happened. Emil Jannings' new picture, "Hitting for Heaven," was a week under way. Everything was going smoothly with sets in readiness, and Jannings and his two leading ladies, Fay Wray and Olga Baklanova, were playing the early scenes. But there was no one to portray "Smith," a n inspired rabbit of a man, dressed in an ill-fitting Salvationist uniform, always fighting his own terror while fighting to save souls.

A trumpet—a trumpet!—bellowed Mauritz Stiller, more or less temperamental director. Johnson came running over with a trumpet, half scared by Stiller's tone. In a flash Stiller visioned him as "Smith," the savior of souls. "Mein Gott," he shouted, "why haven't you been an actor before with a face like that!"

A Salvationist uniform was brought for him and some make-up smeared on his face. Stiller instructed him as to what he should do for about fifteen minutes and Ernie Johnson, prop boy, became Ernest Johnson, character actor, with an important role in Jannings' film.

"The man with the memory"—that's what they call Bill Cowen out here. Bill is the highest priced assistant director in make-believe hamlet. Why? Because more than 2000 screen folk are "card indexed" in his mind. Cowen has an uncanny ability for memorizing faces and names. Fifty new people can go to work on his set in the morning and by noon he can call each of them by name.

"When producing a picture it is important not only to know all the faces of the players but to call them by name also," he says. "This brings about the best co-operation and allows each individual to feel that he has a personality."

When Mary McAllister first appeared in pictures some years ago, she started a pearl necklace. Originally it contained 12 stones, one each for a series of pictures. One pearl was to be added for each film and 10 for each stage production. When she was in Chicago, her home town, a few weeks ago, friends completed the necklace by giving her a diamond clasp for having been chosen a 1927 Wampas Baby Star.

How a high school girl danced her way into Douglas Fairbanks' new production, "The Gaucho," is the story that belongs to Carlotta Monti.

Only a few weeks ago, Miss Monti was employed after school hours in a medical clinic. One night she attended a dance at the Jonathan Club in Hollywood. The next day she was called and asked to consider an engagement in the pictures.

Carlotta knew that this was no time to hesitate, for she was receiving an offer from a casting director for Douglas Fairbanks. And as a result, Carlotta appears as the dancing girl in this newest Fairbanks offering.

"All censors are curious birds, but the motion picture censor is the choicest of them all. This bird can neither sing nor lay eggs, and probably never mates, but it cackles continuously. It lives exclusively on publicity and its habitat is in the densest jungles of imbecility."

Such is James Quirk's description of movie purifiers and reformers as given in a current magazine.

The Vilma Banky-Rod LaRoque wedding was one of those quiet affairs such as P. T. Barnum might have staged with Sam Goldwyn acting in the role of Barnum.

To make sure that the wedding was given sufficient prominence in the newspapers, Goldwyn had a press sheet sent to hundreds of papers. This sheet, issued a week before the wedding, contained stories for use the day following the ceremony. Among other things was a list of the notables who attended including Jack Dempsey, John McCormick and Marie Prevost, all of whom were in New York at the time.

There's nothing unusual about movie actors getting fan letters with their pictures on the envelopes instead of names, but the other day Milton Sills received a letter asking that the procedure be reversed. "I'm just as big a pebble in my town as you are in Hollywood," read the letter. "Just paste the enclosed picture on an envelope addressed to me at the postoffice and see if it doesn't get to me all right."

Estelle Taylor is just back from New York, and getting ready to start work in "La Palva." It's her first picture in seven months, and it came just when she was beginning to think that United Artists had forgotten all about her.

Here comes Jack Muihall dressed as if he is very much aware that it is a hot day.

There is a studio club here where extra girls can live cheaply—but they can't live there when they are broke... payment must be made in advance.

At the first National studio, Harry Langdon is going into a projection room to look at his new picture for the seventeenth time. He is having trouble cutting it, but reports say that it is his best production to date.

Billie Dove is looking more beautiful than ever. Alice White is starting home in a new coupe... her colored maid parked in the rumble seat.

Milton Sills is still wearing an army uniform, but he should be finishing his picture pretty soon. The moon whistle... which really isn't a whistle at all but is a siren... crowded cafe... with temperamental players complaining because rushed waitresses are slow in serving them... outside again... the many colored flags of a new subdivision which has sprung up across the street.

Bebe Daniels and Gertrude Ederle heading for Bebe's beach home and a swim... The English Channel conqueror is here playing in Bebe's current production, "Swim Girl, Swim."

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton in Wally's car... I haven't seen them together on the street for some time.

Eleanor Boardman and King Vidor going into Henri's—a favorite place for lunches and after theater supper.

Renee Adoree on a hurried shopping tour... Jackie Coogan and his father... "The kid" is a kid no longer... he gets bigger every month... Johnny Hines is discussing something with his business manager. William Boyd and Elinor Fair just strolling... Robert Edson watching some carpenters at work on a new house.

At the age of five, Freddie Frederick holds something of a unique film record.

He is the first youngster of his years to be brought across the continent to play in the cinema. And, also, he has played more varied roles on the screen than any lad of his age. Some 1800 Hollywood sons of the celluloid were tested by King Vidor for the part the youngster will have in "The Big Parade" the director of "The Crowd," in which says he hopes to make an epic of the city that will compare with his epic of the war.

Freddie's introduction to the screen was an unpremeditated and as accidental as any on the long list of "finds." The baby's father, A. H. Frederick, was conducting the Hollywood column for NEA Service now written by Dan Thomas.

One day Frederick's wife expressed a desire to watch the stars in the process of having their pictures taken and, having no place to park the child that day, took him along. They visited the Fairbanks studio and there Mary Pickford, noticing the little boy, informed his surprised parents that "he was made to order for the screen."

They gave order for the screen. They gave her comment little attention but later, when a number of directors had upheld Mary's opinion, it was decided to put him in a "kid comedy."

Thereafter Freddie appeared in several of the "school-days" stories and came into immediate demand. It seems that "tough kids" are hard to get and, since Jackie Coogan grew up, have been few and far between. Freddie stepped right in. There is something a bit Cooganesque about him and, when Vidor was looking about for a "street kid" he called for Freddie.

This, of course, puts Freddie on top of the world. He will be one of the featured characters in one of the biggest films of the year. Meanwhile his father is a newspaper man in Los Angeles and his mother goes along to look after Freddie on location.

To Afford Knowledge Instead of Guesswork by the Investment of Money in New York Listed Securities

Security buying which is done on any basis other than a comprehensive knowledge of the whole subject of investments, usually prevents the individual from obtaining the fullest return which his money could give him. He either becomes a money lender satisfied with less than he should have, or strays into the field of speculation and runs the risk of great loss.

Into this situation comes the trained and experienced, competent investment counsellor organization, ready to serve investors and obtain for them the results which specialized ability always produces. This service has enabled the placing of investment funds in such seasoned New York Listed Securities as General Motors, Eastman Kodak, Dupont, U. S. Steel, Standard of New Jersey, National Biscuit at their proper buying positions which permitted enhancement in market values as well as participation in most liberal disbursements of cash and stock dividends. Intelligent Investment is the first step on the road to success. To draw a parallel, an investment counsellor is an individual or firm who knows as much about the subject of securities as the good lawyer knows about law. The layman in investments gets proportionately little better results than he would obtain if he handles his own legal matters.

Apparently healthy men have occasionally been shocked to find themselves unable to pass a life insurance medical examination. The medical man's specialized skill detected hidden dangers. Specialized skill in every line always digs beneath surface indications and gets at the real facts.

This is particularly true of the specialized ability and knowledge possessed by investment counsellor organizations. And, next to health, this ability rates greater importance than almost any other phase of modern life. Physical health is largely an individual matter; financial health is more often a matter which touches the well-being of loved ones.

Now that the field of investment has grown to such enormous proportions, and a lifetime of study is essential to a comprehensive understanding, it behooves those who cannot devote a lifetime to study of this sort to seek the advice of groups who are specializing in the field of investment counsel.

Australia

By Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-25

A message, scratched upon an old tin dinner plate and nailed to a post is one of the earliest records available of the discovery of Australia. The proclamation was tacked up by Dirk Hartog, Dutch explorer, in 1616. The relic survived three centuries and is kept as a museum treasure in Amsterdam. Hartog, however, probably was not the first to see Australia.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-25.

Sailors of Spain, Portugal, Holland and France all claimed to have "discovered" the island continent in the two centuries after Columbus.

William Dampier, pirate and scholar, was the first Englishman to set foot on the land. He reached Australia in 1688.

One of Dampier's company was Alexander Selkirk, the original Robinson Crusoe. Selkirk was marooned on the island of Juan Fernandez and was rescued after four years by Dampier. Cannibals then lived in Australia. The natives were adept with the boomerang, a strange stick which comes back to its starting point.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he has used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Poor Clowny was an awful sight. Of course his head was quite all right, but both his body and his legs were like a chimpanzee. This funny fix just made him frown. Said he, "I'd rather be a clown, although this tickles all of you and makes you laugh in glee."

The other Tins pulled his tail, but that turned out to no avail. They wished to tease poor Clowny, but he only laughed and said, "Oh, shucks, go on and have your fun. I don't know why this trick was done, but if I wait, I think that I will be a clown instead."

Up spoke the Princess, very quick. "Why I'm the one who turned that trick. I thought that I'd surprise you, and I hope that you're not mad." "Oh, no! Of course not," Clowny said. "I'm glad you didn't change my head. And now if I can be a clown again, I'll sure be glad."

The Princess answered, "Just stand still. I guess that you have had your fill of looking like a monkey, so I'll change your looks once more." She waved her queer wand to and fro, and then she said, "I told you so." And Clowny was a clown again, which brought forth quite a roar.

"You had us scared," wee Scouty sighed. "You bet you did," the others cried. "Why, you're just like magicians that we've seen upon the stage. We feared that Clowny'd always be an awful looking chimpanzee. And, if he were, just think, they'd probably keep him in a cage."

Then Carpy broke right in and cried, "I need some food in my inside. I wish I had some popcorn, nice and hot, to keep me warm." The Princess waved her wand again. The air was filled with white, and then the Tins found that they were caught right in a popcorn storm.

Beauty and Health

By Edna Kent Forbes

REDUCING BY DIET

You can eat yourself fat or thin, healthy or unhealthy, beautiful or ugly, according to the intelligence you use in selecting your food. And you must understand some things about it before you select it also.

This is what happens when you eat—if you think this dull, read it anyway, for you've got to understand what's going on inside your body if you want to keep that body in good form.

Digestion starts with the teeth, which cut up the food—you know all about that. The saliva in the mouth begins at once to act on the cooked starchy elements in the food, and continues to act for half an hour after the food has got into the stomach. By that time the stomach itself pours out enough acid, digestive juice to stop the action of the saliva and to attack the proteins in the food. If the food hasn't been well chewed, the lumps irritate the stomach and the acids can only get at the outside layers of the lumps—meaning you'll get indigestion.

Meantime, the stomach goes through a wavelike motion, mixing the food well with the juices and forcing it little by little into the bowel, where the most important part of digestion takes place. (If you think of your tummy as a sort of patent electric washing machine at work, it isn't a bad analogy.) A few inches along the bowel, the bile and the pancreatic juices enter, and juices from the wall of the intestine combine with all these and complete the process known as digestion. What you need in the way of nourishment is then absorbed into the blood through the walls of the intestines.

If the food goes into the stomach in lumps, the intestinal juices may accomplish what the saliva and the stomach juices could not. Food fried in lard unless the lard is boiling at the first instant, is almost impossible to digest.

Blue Eyes—Better let the mole alone as it may go away; meantime a mole on the neck is not disfiguring.

You increase the trouble if you remove the hair on your arms and legs with a depilatory. Try peroxide to bleach it so it will not be noticed.

R. A. L.—The easiest and the most healthful way of reducing your weight is through the diet. Follow the talks on this subject in my chats and you will discover which foods you should omit, until you attain your normal weight again.

Garden Bonnet

A summer morning in the garden can be the most delightful part of one's day in this quaint hat of rough natural straw with two long streamers of blue grosgrain caught by a single marguerite.

MENU for the FAMILY

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Halves of cantaloupe, scrambled eggs with bacon, graham gems, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Fish and celery salad, rye bread and butter sandwiches, strawberry surprise, sponge cake, milk, tea.

DINNER—Broiled lamb chops, new potatoes in parsley butter, creamed carrots, ginger ale salad, cheese wafers, floating island, milk, coffee.

The fish and celery salad is planned to use up any of the half-but that may have been left from the preceding dinner. The secret of a successful fish salad lies in using a decidedly tart dressing for marinating the fish. Care in mixing the salad to prevent crushing the fish flakes is also essential.

Strawberry Surprise
One cup whipping cream, 1 cup marshmallows, ½ cup powdered sugar, 2 cups strawberries, ¼ teaspoon vanilla.

Cut marshmallows in small pieces and combine with strawberries cut in quarters. Let stand on ice for one hour. Whip cream until firm, beat in sugar and vanilla and fold in strawberry mixture. Chill and serve in sherbet glasses.

EXPLAINS WHY CHILDREN DO NOT UNDERSTAND PARENTS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Much has been written about parents understanding children. Who has taken the trouble to explain that children seldom understand parents?

Children take it for granted, almost invariably, that they are incidental to home life and household machinery. It is natural for them to think so. They see that there is an inexorable routine of making beds, ironing clothes, cooking meals, washing dishes, and sweeping floors.

They are apt to feel that their mother thinks more of the business of housekeeping than she does of them. And they are apt to think, too, that their father thinks more of the affairs of his office, store, or mill than of them.

It is difficult for them to see that both parents put in long hard days just because of them, gladly and uncomplainingly, and usually silently. In the little time left when tired bodies and nerves need rest and relaxation, children are likely to resent it if the leisure hour or two is not spent with them. They get it into their heads that they do not enter greatly into the scheme of things.

There are so many things that happen in family life, too, that children may not know. I heard a boy of 13 say one day, "Oh, mother's acting like a wet hen these days. She gets funny spells sometimes." I knew that the mother was fighting something silently and alone. The tragedy of another woman had entered her life. She was trying to be brave and strong and keep her home together and the children from knowing. When dead and gone that mother will only get credit for "funny spells" from her children, more than likely.

I knew a father who nursed his business night and day for several years through a financial crisis so his children could go to school. Bed and office were all he knew. His children blamed him for neglecting their mother and them.

I don't suppose they ever will know the truth, until they, too, are parents. Then they can look back, perhaps, and understand.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

Does it seem utterly unreasonable for a wife who supports her husband by working for pay outside the home to expect him to at least look after the children while she is out tolling for their daily bread? A Boston lady didn't think so. She told the judge before whom she appeared on complaint of a non-support charge against her husband that she realized it was hard for a man to get a job, and was perfectly willing to keep on with her own job and also do the housework, but she did think he might look after the children as long as he was not working.

of pickled pigs' feet, potato salad, pickled herring and chili sauce, summer sausage and ginger ale. She won.

What a funny world! Think of the wives who would think such a husband the rarest find on earth! No dinner to cook. Goody, goody—movies, matinee, shopping, lots of time!

HER FOOTSTEPS
Unimportant, insignificant woman! Her footsteps determine the real estate values of great cities! A speaker before a national convention of builders told them that the highest priced property in any city is in the block where women shoppers congregate. "The beaten path between three great stores is the 'charmed circle' from a real estate viewpoint," he said.

The business world is more and more granting woman her significance. They recognize us as buyers, if not sellers.

TOO MUCH FUDGE
The famous "pretty girl artist," Coles Phillips, who recently died, left his palette for a pigeon farm shortly before his death. He is said to have explained his move by saying that he was so surfeited by pretty girls that he never wanted to see one. "It is like dining exclusively on chocolate eclairs until one sighs for corned beef and cabbage," he said. "I have stopped dead in the middle of the street to gaze in admiration at some passer-by because she was so ugly." Which makes some of us feel better after all!

FOR PLUMP MAIDS
Just a little bon bon for the plump demure! Even today they prefer 'em fat in Turkey, and the slipshod maidens are disposed of only at matrimonial rummage sales in that land. This, according to a Mrs. Alice Howland Macomber, who recently returned from Turkey where she was engaged to study that country and lecture upon it.

DELICATESS HUSBAND
The delicatessen wife has been lambasted very often. Now we have the delicatessen husband. A Chicago lady begged a judge for a divorce because she said, no matter what delicious nice hot meals she cooked "him," he insisted on bringing home from his delicatessen store his own meals.

JUST ANGE
He went down to the basement, just to test his stuff. And then one bottle busted and he flew right back up stairs again.

Billy Evans Says

You never can tell in baseball, for the athletes do not always run true to form.

In the spring, all of the experts in sizing up the Detroit ball club stressed the importance of the addition of Marty McManus at second. Likewise, they said many kind things about Earl Whitehill, Tiger southpaw.

When I looked the Detroit club over at San Antonio in early April I realized why so many of the traveling scribes had enthused over McManus. The former second sacker of the St. Louis Browns looked in great shape and appeared all set for a big season. Whitehill, a great southpaw, also seemed further advanced than the rest of the staff and expressed the belief that he would win 20 games for Detroit.

Manager Moriarty, in figuring his chances, made it apparent that he was placing much dependence in both Whitehill and McManus.

With the season half over, spring predictions have failed to work out. So far it has been a poor year for the two above mentioned stars.

Disagreements occur on every ball club, so it was nothing out of the ordinary when Manager Moriarty took issue with Second Baseman McManus and removed him from the lineup.

As a matter of fact, McManus is a sort of protege of Moriarty. When "Morrie" was made manager of the Detroit club one of the first things he did was make a trade for him. Knowing McManus' great ability plus the close friendship that existed between the two, he hoped that Marty would play the greatest game of his career for him.

Things failed to pan out as Manager Moriarty had hoped relative to McManus, but nevertheless some good came of the rum-pum between pilot and player. Having relegated McManus to the bench, the second base job fell to Charley Gehring. It gave him the big opportunity and he has made the most of it. No one in either major league is going any better at the position.

Gehring is destined to become one of the game's greatest second basemen. He can field, hit, run and throw. All he needs is a few years' experience to be an outstanding star.

The breaks must favor a pitcher if he is to be a consistent winner. They have been going just the other way for Earl Whitehill this year.

In several games he has been cheated out of a victory by a big inning rally on the part of the opposition late in the game, when it seemed as if he was in. In others, lack of a timely hit has been disastrous.

There are some who believe that the weakening of Whitehill in a number of games has been caused by too much relief work. Earl has been used in the rescue role quite often this year with only fair success.

Some pitchers insist that relief work for a couple of innings at high pressure takes more out of

EDDIE BROWN

There's no danger of Eddie Brown, Braves' outfielder, breaking Everett Scott's record for playing in consecutive games, but his run of 475 games, up to June 28, is worth bragging about. Brown started his consecutive streak while a member of the Brooklyn team. Inasmuch as he is not considered a regular starter Brown's chances of beating Scott's record are not so good. But his record is being followed with interest.

State Pro Golfers To Clash July 24

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—Members of the California Professional Golfers' association will stage their annual tourney beginning July 24, it was announced today.

The first 36 holes will be played over a Northern California course, and the latter round "somewhere in Southern California."

Indications point to a keen competitive field, probably headed by Harry Cooper, runner-up in the recent National Open at Oakmont, Pa.

BANKERS KNOCK BLAVERS FROM HIGH POSITION

Continuing their spectacular climb which in the space of four weeks has carried them from last place to a contending position for the championship of the Santa Ana Night Baseball league, the surprising first National Bankers hammered the F. C. Blauers down from their high post as league leaders by beating the Grocers decisively, 5 to 1, at Lincoln park last night.

Gene Hitt's remarkable pitching again proved the dominant feature in the Bankers' victory, the blue jerseyed gunner having the erstwhile pace-makers at his mercy with his "swift." He allowed only five scattered hits, all of these being gathered by two men, and ran his string of consecutive scoreless innings to an even 20 before the Grocers made their solitary score in the eighth inning.

Orville Schuchardt, the fleet high school boy, and Bill Foote, the Poly baseball coach, were the lone Grocers to solve Hitt's offerings, the former connecting safely three times to boost his swatting average so that it now is best in the league. Jerry Heard, the Banker outfielder, and Hitt, who also are fighting for the league's batting leadership, both drove out two bingles but Heard also drew a walk which shoved him a few points out in front of his teammates.

Heard started the Skylocks off in the first frame with a screaming double down the right field foul line and both he and Hitt rambled around home when Don Smith allowed the latter's well hit single to left to roll between his legs and go for a "home run."

Successful singles by Don Jerome, Finster and "Mickey" Le Bard, a sacrifice by Harless and a single by Burns produced the Bankers' other runs in the fourth. Besides from these two bad frames, "Dizzy" Jordan, the Grocers' big deceiver, held his own with Hitt.

The Blauers got their run in the eighth when Schuchardt led off with a single, went to second and third on wild pitches and scored on Foote's single.

Another one of those "clubs of destiny," the colorful Tienan Kids will be seen in action tonight, meeting the Platt Silvertons. The Tienans beat the Platts, 1 to 0, on the first swing around the circuit and the same pitchers, Tan Hitt and "Eeny" Wilcox, are scheduled to go to the well. The score:

TWO JACKS ARE WIDE OPEN TO RIGHTS, CLAIM

By HENRY L. FARRELL

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, July 12.—Jack Dempsey always has been open to a right hand punch. In fact, critics say he is wide open for any kind of punch when he is not winging himself. But it was the right hand punch that got him into all his serious trouble and finally cost him his title.

Carpenter nearly cracked Dempsey's neck with a straight right hand to the jaw. Tom Gibbons nailed him with a right hand and made him dizzy in Shelby. Bill Brennan tore one of his ears open with a right hander. Firpo all but knocked him out with a wild right swing and Tunney cut him to pieces with right hand chops and upper cuts. Jack Sharkey, training to fight Dempsey here July 21, therefore, is concentrating on a right hand attack, although his left hand always has been rated as his best weapon.

Sharkey Shows Versatility

Until Sharkey knocked out Jim Maloney and got himself into the class of "big shots," he was regarded principally as a left hand fighter.

In the Maloney fight, he started his big opponent on the way with left jabs that closed his eyes and finished with right hand punches executed with artistic perfection.

Maloney was thrown clear of his fight by the surprise attack from the right side and Sharkey explained later that he had intended to do just that.

"My right hand," he said, "wasn't any too strong and I didn't want to take too many chances on getting it cracked up. But it's strong now and I am not timid about letting it go." All those who have seen Sharkey working here have been impressed with his physical condition, his speed and his snappy punching. He also has ring sense—the knack of knowing what to do by instinct.

Leaves Jaw Wide Open

But the critics are pointing out that he is too open. He has fallen into the habit of a low guard—if he is not stalling the public—and it leaves his jaw wide open.

He has a good defense, however, in his weaving style of fighting, but Dempsey knows a lot about that style of attack and so does Leo Flynn, who handled two fighters who beat Sharkey.

Maloney trained for weeks on a body attack but when he got into the ring he was so tempted by the open jaw of Sharkey, which was stuck out belligerently at him, that he forgot his fight and never went at the body.

SHEDDING SOME LIGHT ON AN ARGUMENT

The greatest array of sprinters ever assembled at one time and at the same place was gathered in Lincoln, Neb., recently for the annual A. A. U. games. Virtually every sprinter of any importance was there. The picture shows the finish of the 100-yard dash finals, which was so close judges were unable to decide whether Chet Bowman, Newark A. C. star, or Charley Borah, Hollywood A. C. star, had won. Bowman was declared winner later. The finishers, reading left to right, are Borah, Frank Hussey, New York A. C.; Henry Cummings, Newark A. C.; Bowman, and Roland Locke, Nebraska.

MAILMEN BEAT LATHROP CLUB IN LAST ROUND

The combination of Everett Berry's pitching and batting was too much for the Julia C. Lathrop junior high school Playgrounds in yesterday's Santa Ana Twilight league fust at Lincoln park, the big Post Office moundsman leading his club to a 3 to 2 victory over the South Main street youngsters.

Berry not only set down the Playgrounds with four well scattered hits but also won his own game in the last inning with a single which sent Seth Bullock scampering home from second base, breaking a 2 to 2 tie.

Leo Gaspar, the Lathrop toiler, was in good form himself and allowed the Mailmen only three hits but two of them were bunched in the fatal seventh.

A double by Sheriff, a triple by Kent and a single by Garlock after two were dead in the third gave the Playgrounds their two runs and three of their four hits.

The Mailmen got one back in the third, G. Berry getting a walk and making the circuit on wild pitches and passed balls. Hoff's double produced the tying marker in the sixth and the Bullock-Berry combine broke up the tie in the seventh.

Willards' Playground was to meet the Legion Rugby corps today. The City Hall will play the Willards tomorrow. The score:

Ex-Champion All Wet In Hero Role

HAGUE ON LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., July 12.—Jack Dempsey got wet and proved a hero when a dock collapsed here shortly before the start of the Lake George marathon swim today.

As Dempsey stepped on the dock from a steamboat, a crowd of 25 or 30 persons rushed onto it from the shore to greet him. The dock collapsed, hurling the entire Dempsey party and all the greeters into the water. The lake is only two feet deep at the point however.

The crowd started scrambling up the bank, Dempsey among them. Then the former champion saw a woman still in the water, apparently unable to get out. He returned to the water, picked her up and carried her ashore.

MCKINLEY SCHOOL CONQUERS LINCOLN

McKinley school annexed its first win in the Santa Ana Play-ground league yesterday, outscoring Lincoln school, 17 to 6, in a tussle at Lincoln park. Franklin and Spurgeon schools were to meet today with Roosevelt and McKinley tangling tomorrow.

Francis Conrad, Charles Crumley, Merle Ervin, Ronald Strotman, Herbert Mires, Harold Dailley, David Whitford and Max Norman were in the McKinley lineup. The Lincoln team included Walter Bows, Lewis McIntyre, John Carter, Edwin Fugate, George Nieblas, Malcolm Smith, Billy Gibbs, Erwin Yonel, Roderick Dresser and Lloyd Gibbs.

"While it is to be regretted that the rules were not complied with at the time of the play and that Santa Ana captain did not call the umpires' attention to their error, the rules leave nothing for me to do but to sustain the protest filed by Santa Ana."

"So, therefore, it is ordered that the game be replayed within the next two weeks on the Anaheim diamond."

"VIC BADEN"

President Orange County Night Baseball League.

GAVE ALL SURPRISE

Columbia won the Poughkeepsie regatta, despite the fact that every critic of importance had rated its crew far behind the Navy, Washington and California.

Time is fleeting and sports fans are prone to forget so that is why, perhaps, few followers of Santa Ana's night baseball fortunes remember Leo ("Babe") Calland, the affable "gate-man" and manager for the Santa Ana Night Baseball association, as captain of the University of Southern California football team of 1922 which played Penn State in the New Year's day game at Pasadena January 1, 1923. Calland was freshman mentor at U. S. C. in 1923 and was varsity line coach in 1924. He was at Whittier in 1925 and 1926 but returns to his alma mater next fall as varsity line coach under Howard Jones.

Scotch Mist Makes Record Marks Impossible; U. S. Players All Near Front

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 12.—An historic Scotch mist settled over St. Andrews today as golfers seeking the British open championship began the second round of qualifying play.

It was a cool morning and conditions were unfavorable for low scores.

Jim Barnes, American, was one of the first to finish. He played the old course in 79 strokes for an aggregate of 153.

E. W. Haley, the American amateur who created a sensation by early victories in the British Amateur championship, also had a disappointing round. He was in trouble frequently during the outgoing nine and finished with an 83 for an aggregate of 154. He may be among the 100 to qualify for the 72 holes, however.

Larry Nabholz, of Cleveland, turned in a 76 for a total of 153 and was assured of qualifying. Scores of other Americans included:

S. Redmond, 79—156; Tom Stevens, 82—158; Walter Kennaet, 78—155.

Rene Gollas, the young Frenchman, whose 71 yesterday put him in the van, returned a 76 today and the resulting 147 gave him leadership among the golfers who had finished by 8:30 p. m.

R. E. Ballantine, of England, was well up with a total of 150. He had a 77 today. Other leaders were Aubrey Boomer, 78—151, and C. Fryer, 76—153.

J. G. Anderson, America, registered a 79 for a total of 158.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 12.—Two Americans were among the 10 leads at the end of the first day's qualifying round in the British open golf championship yesterday.

The standing of the leaders: Rene Gollas, France, 71; Charles H. Gadd, England, and E. R. Whitcomb, England, 72; Melhorn, Cyril Tolley, England, Aubrey Boomer, Scotland, W. Nolan, Ireland, and W. E. Ballantine, England, 73; Barnes, C. A. Whitcombe, England, 74.

Vierkotter Leads Lake George Swim

HAGUE ON LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., July 12.—Ernst Vierkotter, German baker, was leading the 24-mile Lake George marathon swim after the first hour in the water today.

Nearly 100 swimmers started the long grind across the chilly waters of the lake.

NEWS from ORANGE COUNTY

SPEED LIMITS ON BAY SET BY BEACH BOARD

NEWPORT BEACH, July 12.—The county channel in the lower bay, east of the pavilion, will be unrestricted as to speed limits hereafter, it was decided at the meeting of the board of trustees last night.

It was pointed out, however, that speeding in other portions of the bay will not be tolerated, the 10 mile general limit and the six mile turning basin limit still to be enforced. The speed course next to the north shore of the western end of the bay is still in effect.

Leaflets are to be printed containing the exact ruling of the board, in ordinance and otherwise, and distributed among boat owners so that all may be aware of the exact boundaries.

Leases Rescinded
The board approved the tentative action taken by those members of the board at a former meeting rescinding the leases of Rodgers brothers and J. K. Smith on the Balboa and Newport Beach piers. Trustee Harry Williamson reported the findings of the appraisal committee. On the Balboa pier, the lessees' property was found to be worth $200 and on the Newport Beach pier, the lessees' property was evaluated at $375, according to the report. The contracts on the two piers have 15 days to run before cancellation, it was decided.

That the lessees will continue to operate as usual under licenses after the contracts are revoked, in competition with others who may ask licenses to operate off the piers, was indicated in the appointment of a committee by Dr. Conrad Richter, president of the board, to adjust the license rates to fit the new conditions.

J. A. Wynn, police chief, Harry Williamson, trustee, R. S. Briggs, city auditor, Hugh McMillan, representative of the fishing interests; Ray Bell, representative of the business men, and C. D. Rodger and Dan Orens, barge and boat representatives, were the ones appointed to the committee. The rate is now $50, it is understood. That the license may be increased was indicated.

$2414.25 For Tournament
Following the explanation of J. A. Beek, general chairman of the tournament of lights pageant, the board voted to allow the full amount asked in the budget for the event from the advertising fund. The total amount is $2414.25. Of this sum the city will provide $1435. The county supervisors have given $500 and there is other money available to make up the remainder, according to Beek. That the pageant warranted a greater expenditure than ever before was stated by Beek because of the great amount of interest which is taken in it and the immense crowds which it attracts. The four miles additional road along the coast highway recently completed from which spectators can view the pageant was also cited by Beek in his plea for the sum.

Numbering System Sought
That a new system of numbering houses and naming streets may be worked out to correct an asserted existing evil appeared likely following the action of the board in naming the city engineer, Paul E. Kressley, to investigate and recommend at the next board meeting. The matter was brought to the attention of the board by L. S. Wilkinson, trustee. The jump from Fourth street to Ninth street in one block on Central avenue and the tying in of Twenty-eighth street with Twenty-sixth street in the western section of the city was cited as examples of the existing conditions. The lack of house numbers which, according to Trustee Wilkinson, is almost universal in the city was deplored.

The application of Ben Cope to lease a tract 200 feet square on the bay front between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets for a period of 10 years at $2 per front foot was referred to a committee for investigation and report.

The application of Cope to construct a pier with a platform to hang banners across the city streets advertising the Los Angeles County fair, to be held at Pomona in the fall.

Owners of property along the bay front at Ninth street asked that an opinion be given them on their rights to a strip of bay beach between their property lines and the water. Trustee Wilkinson informed the property owners that the city would acquire the property from the state this month when a law goes into effect turning the bay frontage over to the city. Following the acquisition of the property, the city will be prepared to lease for a nominal sum for a term of years to those property owners who desire to lease, he said. The city does not have power to sell, and has not leased, as yet, he said.

The Permanent Court of International Justice, now in session at The Hague, consists of eleven regular judges and four deputy judges, each of a different nationality.

Fossils To Be Placed On Display

NEWPORT BEACH, July 12.—Fossils of Newport Beach and Balboa are to be placed on display. They are to be appropriately mounted and displayed in a museum in the public library, it was decided by the board of trustees last night. Trustee L. S. Wilkinson was named a committee of one to arrange such a display.

TUSTIN, July 12.—Under a notice received from the United States Civil Service commission, applications for appointment as postmaster at Tustin will be received by the commission up to August 3. Under the procedure, those applying by August 3 will be notified to appear at Santa Ana post office for examination. Questions for the examination will be in the hands of Martin Warren, secretary of the commission at Santa Ana, and immediately after the examinations papers will be sent to San Francisco for correction. From those who apply, the three receiving the highest grades will be certified by the commission to the post office department, and appointment as postmaster must be made from these three. It is understood that Miss Phinney will be an applicant to succeed her mother as postmaster.

Venice Man Hurt As Car Hits Sand
HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 12.—N. E. Williams, of Venice, was taken to the Long Beach Community hospital yesterday by Dr. Beverly Young, of the Oil Fields' Emergency hospital, following an accident on the Coast highway near the Bolea Chicago gun club Sunday evening.

According to a report on file with local police, Dr. Young discovered the man in an unconscious condition, underneath an automobile. It appeared, according to the report, that the driver of the car had become confused in the heavy fog and driven into the sand, where his car overturned.

The man was seriously injured. It is the opinion of attending physicians.

H. B. Police Seek Attacker Of Girl

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 12.—Search for a man who is alleged to have slashed a tent in the municipal camp grounds and attacked a young woman occupant is being made by officers of the local police department.

Then a tent slashing bears a marked resemblance to similar operations carried on at Newport Beach and Laguna Beach recently and it is thought that the same person may have committed the three offenses.

NEW P. E. RATE SCHEDULE PLAN OF H. B. C. OF C.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 12.—That the Pacific Electric railway may be petitioned to revise its rates to give Huntington Beach an equal standing with Newport Beach and Balboa in the matter of round trip fares from Los Angeles, appeared likely today.

It was called to the attention of the chamber of commerce by interested citizens yesterday that the round trip fare to Huntington Beach is almost half again as much as it is to Newport Beach.

As the trains bearing Newport Beach passengers pass through Huntington Beach enroute to Newport Beach, it is believed by chamber officials that the rates should be adjusted to either give this city a lower rate than Newport Beach or make the rates the same.

That definite action may be taken on the matter at the monthly meeting of the chamber this evening was admitted as a possibility.

$200,000 PAID BY M. O. D. PLANT AS FIRST PAYMENT FOR VALENCIA SHIPMENTS

ANAHEIM, July 12.—The Anaheim Co-operative Orange association, an M. O. D. house, announced this morning that checks aggregating approximately $200,000 have been mailed member growers as advance payment on the association's first shipping period.

The Co-operative expects to pay growers approximately $500,000 for fruit marketed during its first pool period when final settlements are made early in August. Manager J. H. Ritchie announced. This amount, added to the $300,000 the Anaheim Orange and Lemon association expects to pay for first pool fruit and the $400,000 the Anaheim Citrus Fruits association expects to pay, will bring the total value of the early Valencia crop in the Anaheim district up to approximately $1,200,000 with three other local distributing agencies yet to be heard from.

These three houses have reported the payment to growers of amounts aggregating approximately $468,000 as part settlement on first pool fruit. The Anaheim Orange and Lemon association some weeks ago reported that approximately $150,000 had already been paid growers interested in the first pool period and the Anaheim Citrus Fruit association reported that it has advanced its growers approximately $118,000.

The first pool period at the Anaheim Co-operative house closed late in June and the second pool, on which the house is now working, is expected to be rounded out about August 15. Manager Ritchie said this morning.

Prices are showing a consistent improvement on the eastern market and a good marketing record is looked for in the handling of the second pool of fruit. Manager Ritchie said. Fruit sizes, however, are still showing a preponderance of the smaller grades although the quality is generally excellent, he stated.

An important change in rules is under consideration by the English Jockey club. This is the "declaration to win." At present, when an owner is running, say, two horses in one race, he can declare to win with one of them. This is often done in big races. In a case like this, if a declared horse is winning, the jockey of the other is entitled to ride to lose, though he must do his best to win if the first choice has obviously no chance.

STATE OFFICE AIMS OF COUNTY LEGION POSTS

ORANGE, July 12.—That the Orange county Legion delegation, approximately 300 strong, will make an attempt to win statewide laurels at the annual California American Legion convention to be held at Santa Barbara August 2 to 5, inclusive, was the plan revealed here today by Claude Potter, Orange post commander, who is one of the Orange delegates.

According to Potter, the Orange county representatives will take the convention floor with instructions to bring a state office to Orange county. It is probable that an attempt will be made to nominate the state commander from this county providing sufficient strength can be mustered from other districts to bolster the county's vote.

Although Potter made it plain that Orange county would try for a state office, he declined to divulge the prospective candidates who are to be put on the floor for nomination. He said it was likely that several other districts would throw their support to the local county cause, in which case it was not altogether improbable that the highest office might be brought back.

Armed with booklets, pamphlets and other advertising literature from Orange county, the Legion delegation, including delegates from every post in the county, will storm Santa Barbara early the opening day, according to present plans.

A truckload of oranges will be taken to the convention city and distributed by the Orange county representatives as an advertising stunt for the county. Potter today urged chamber of commerce secretaries in all Orange county cities to supply the delegation with descriptive matter for the invasion.

EVENING SALUTATION

Here's a sigh to those who love me
And a smile to those who hate;
And whatever sky's above me,
Here's a heart for every fate.
—Lord Byron.

THE FLOOD, THEN AND NOW

Last February when the Los Angeles Times was using its best efforts to delay the passage of the Swing-Johnson bill by congress, it started a flank movement. It published alarming dispatches and estimates, and cried out to the nation that a great flood was sure to break loose upon the Imperial valley. Peril was at hand! A tremendous snow-fall in the upper reaches of the Colorado river meant that an unprecedented flow would come surging down the stream and nothing, absolutely nothing, but a great appropriation from congress could stop the coming of disaster. The present and future of the great Imperial valley was at stake. Chambers of commerce, clubs, individuals and anybody else who might have any influence on a congressman were persuaded to send resolutions to Washington imploring immediate action. Save Imperial Valley!

Senator Johnson and Congressman Swing at that moment were engaged in fighting for the passage of the Swing-Johnson bill. Telegrams began pouring in, asking them to set aside all else and save Imperial!

The Times had so manipulated its special dispatches and interviews that it had actually persuaded close friends of the Colorado river project in Southern California to appeal to the leaders at Washington to forget the Swing-Johnson bill for the moment, and save Imperial from the tremendous flood that The Times said was sure to sweep down upon the valley.

If there is anything that Congressman Swing recognizes on sight, it is propaganda sent out by the Los Angeles Times. For years and years, he has been subjected to it in every conceivable form. In reply to the campaign started by The Times to save Imperial, Congressman Swing gathered reports from federal weather authorities showing that the snow-fall was not abnormal, and that the flood danger had been worked up in the office of the Los Angeles Times for the purpose of hindering the progress of the campaign for the passage of the Swing-Johnson bill by congress.

After congress adjourned, the flood menace dwindled, and it has never been as great since as it was when pressure was greatest at Washington. The Times this morning carries a news item that is not inspired propaganda. It states that the high mark of the summer flow of the river has been reached, and for two days now the measurements show the flow decreasing.

And Imperial valley still lives!
A number of interviews with United States senators and congressmen have been published in recent weeks, showing that both friends and foes of the Swing-Johnson bill expect the bill to pass at the next session of congress. Foes of the bill who have given out interviews to that effect include Senator Ashurst of Arizona; possibly he hopes to lull us into a feeling of security. The situation may be as bright as these interviews picture, but we suspect that there is a tremendously hard fight ahead of us before passage of the bill is secured. Attempting to block the progress of the bill, at every turn we will find Harry Chandler and the Los Angeles Times. The story of the threatened flood has been used, and it won't do to use it again, but The Times will have some other weapon at hand, and it will use it.

THE FUTURE IS PROMISING

A recent cartoon depicted a small boy scowlingly studying a lot of newspapers full of news stories about airplane flights—around the world, across the oceans, into the polar regions. The youngster is represented as saying disconsolately:

"There won't be anything left for me to do when I grow up."

And that, of course, is nonsense. There will be plenty left to do not only for that kid but for all the enterprising, courageous youngsters now thrilled and inspired by this summer's much flying. Many years ago Emerson wrote in his journal a list of the wonderful things that had been invented or discovered within the span of his lifetime. It was an impressive list and he or any of his contemporaries might quite understandably have imagined that there wasn't much left for coming generations to accomplish.

The years since then, however, have seen further progress, with further discoveries, inventions, explorations in old and new fields. And all of them are merely steps, pointers, hints of what the future may hold in store.

WHO ARE THEY?

Not long ago the nation was edified by reading of a young lady arrested in Chicago for fast driving who protested indignantly to the police: "Do you know who I am? Well, I'm Peaches Browning!" Which ought to have settled the matter, but didn't. Again the same play, in another city, by another notable person. A young lady arrested there for speeding exclaimed: "Don't you know who I am? I'm Gertrude Ederle!"

This sort of thing gets on the public's nerves after a little. The next time it happens, everybody will feel like saying mildly, after the important young person has got through explaining about her superiority to law and order: "Well, all right—who are you?"

CERTIFIED ARTISTS

Art is to be certified in Turkey from now on. The process sounds quite as bad as any proposed or practiced literary or artistic censorship in this country.

Under the reform plan only sculptors, musicians or other artists who hold municipal certificates will be allowed to express their inspirations in Constantinople. These certificates are secured by passing certain examinations given by a commission appointed by the prefect. Any artist who fails to pass his examination will be branded as a charlatan and forbidden to pursue his artistic vocation within the city limits.

One wonders what sort of examination is given and who passes on the commission's qualifications for artistic judgment. Ordinarily an artist is known by his works. If his music or sculpture or painting means enough to enough different and disinterested persons, it usually turns out to be art. If it doesn't mean anything to anybody, then it isn't art, and whether he pursues his work further or not harms nobody unless perhaps himself and family.

City Manager Form Popular

Sacramento Bee

When the city manager form of government was inaugurated in the United States, the common belief was it would work only in the smaller cities.

Actual experience, however, is disproving this. Gradually, it is being extended to the largest cities of the country. Cleveland and Kansas City adopted it some time ago, and now their number has been added Indianapolis, which has more than 400,000 population.

Adoption there was partly due to a protest against the Republican Klan machine, the head of which recently was indicted for violating the state corrupt practices act. The entire administration, however, has long been under the shadow of general charges of corruption and incompetence.

Sacramento has no reason to regret her abolition of the commission and the adoption of the manager form of running her affairs.

The administration has in nearly every way been more satisfactory. Wastefulness has been reduced; political squabbling over the spoils of office has been largely abolished; the direction of affairs by one man has improved the efficiency and morale of all the city departments.

The city manager form of government is here to stay.

Strives for Convention

Pasadena Star-News

San Francisco stands a good show of getting the 1928 Republican national convention. The Bay City is striving strenuously for this honor. It has spirited competition. Cleveland, Chicago and St. Louis want the convention, and will put in strong bids. Eastern political leaders prefer to have the convention east of the Rocky Mountains, it is said. Nevertheless, San Francisco is pushing its claims. It has raised a convention fund of $150,000, and will double this amount, if necessary. William H. Crocker, California member of the Republican National committee, is working vigorously to bring the 1928 convention to the Bay City. Californians generally are rallying to San Francisco's support. Even prominent Democrats of the state are putting their pride ahead of partisan political considerations and are boosting for the Republican national convention in this state next year.

San Francisco did itself proud in entertaining the Democratic national convention in 1920. The fame of its hospitality that year spread all over the land. The excellent showing then made should have weight with Republican leaders in selecting the 1928 convention city.

Educated Fruit Name

San Bernardino Sun

We read with interest that by fiat of none other than the annual meeting of the California Avocado Growers exchange the word avocado is to be stricken from the dictionary—as far as the exchange members are concerned. Henceforth it is to be the Calavo growers association. The avocado orchards or the members have overnight become "Calavo" orchards. The old fruit is to be scored; the new, praised.

The order first presents itself as one compelling wholesale grafting of trees to produce this new and presumably finer fruit. The new fruit "grows" with its name stamped upon it, at least so the pictures would make us think. Further study, however, makes it all clear. The "Calavo" is a trade name, copy-right of course. We are relieved. It has been quite a task to learn to ask for avocados instead of "alligator pears," which we learned were a very alligator variety of fruit. The avocados may be a step ahead but if we want a real educated variety with a college degree and all that goes with it, we must perforce order "Calavos."

The supervisors of the county have decided upon a policy that hereafter none but charity patients shall be accepted at the general hospital, as the county institution of that character is termed. It has been the custom in the past for some physicians to take there certain patients who were unable to pay the costs of a private hospital, but could pay something toward their care. But the custom has been abused, hence the decision to keep out all except "charity patients." So, once again, the abuse of a good thing brings about a restriction upon the usefulness of a good institution. The new order is undoubtedly necessary, under the circumstances. The regret is that circumstances are as they are.—Redlands Facts.

CARE NEEDED IN FINDING RIGHT WORK FOR TUBERCULAR PEOPLE

The most recent bulletin issued by the National Tuberculosis Association concerns the type of employment to be followed by people with tuberculosis, after they have recovered from the disease, or while it is in an arrested state.

When the person leaves the hospital or the sanitarium he must adjust himself mentally and physically to the changed conditions of life. In the sanitarium he has been able to rest most of the time, but once in the routine of daily life outside the walls of the institution, the dominant note of his existence is work. He has not been allowed to leave the sheltering walls of the institution until his robustness, his color, and weight have convinced the authorities that he will be able to sustain the burdens of normal existence.

He will probably appear to all ordinary observers more healthy than most of the people around him who have never suffered with tuberculosis. They will naturally expect much of him, and he will probably try to meet their expectations. This is a serious error. On the other hand, the patient may still fear his disease and be confirmed in habits of rest so that any type of work will seem burdensome to him. This attitude of mind also requires readjustment.

The patient who comes back to ordinary life after a long period in a sanitarium must have work that will be sufficient to provide a living for himself and perhaps for a family, but which will not bring about a physical breakdown due to excess of exertion. Whenever possible the patient should try to return to his old occupation, unless this has been such as to be directly associated with the attack of his disease. If his physical capacity is not up to what it was before his illness, the work may sometimes be modified to meet his newer capacities.

Whenever a patient who has had a long period in a sanitarium returns to daily life, he should have opportunity for frequent medical consultation. This is necessary in order that the effects of the work on the patient may be regularly determined and his activities regulated in accordance with these measurements. It is a mistake to go along without control, for the disease is insidious and relapse may set in and gain control before the patient realizes his difficulty.

So Many Talented Children She Doesn't Know What To Do

"There's Likewise The Wind On The Heath"

San Francisco Chronicle

(Much has been said and is being said about current suicides. We still think George Borrow's gypsy friend Jasper Petulengro said it best, dissipating and blowing into thin air the morbid egotisms of the self-destroyers. We are corroborated by the fact that this editorial, first printed in The Chronicle of May 19, 1926, and again on September 20, has been copied and reprinted hundreds of times by newspapers throughout America. So we reprint it once more.)

Accounts of suicide in the news are almost always depressing. They lessen one's confidence in the strength of the human spirit. They may arouse pity, it is true, but except in unusual circumstances this is pity based upon a recognition of weakness.

For suicide, speaking generally, is an abject confession of defeat, of complete failure of courage. And it signifies so narrow a vision, so limited an interest, for any man to say that in all the wide world nothing is left for him.

Consider the words Jasper Petulengro, the Norfolk gypsy, spoke to George Borrow:

"Life is sweet, brother."
"Do you think so?"
"Think so! There's night and day, brother, both sweet things; sun, moon and stars, brother, all sweet things; there's likewise the wind on the heath. Life is very sweet, brother; who would wish to die?"

"I would wish to die—"
"You talk like a giorio—which is the same as talking like a fool—were you a gypsy chad you would talk wiser. Wish to die, indeed! A Roman chad would wish to live forever!"

"In sickness, Jasper?"
"There's the sun and stars, brother."
"In blindness, Jasper?"
"There's the wind on the heath, brother; if I could only feel that, I would gladly live forever."

SEA SAVOR

The tides of ancient harbors Surge ever out and in;
The cries of circling sea gulls
Drift downward, sharp and thin.

The blue winds sink to slumber
As the long day declines;
Floats from the shaggy uplands
The perfume of the pines.

Off shore in the night watches
The rocks and reefs complain,
But dawn brings lyric music
From Montauk up to Maine.

Dawn spreads its old enchantment,
A lover may not be
Than where one tastes forever
The savor of the sea.

AMERICA'S GREATEST NEED—A PLACE TO PARK

America's greatest need—a place to park!

No longer will the five-cent cigar that Tom Marshall sighed for content the heart of the nation. What the free-born American needs is a place to park his flover—and he needs it now.

Even in the smallest hamlet he may find himself confronted with directions about where to park and how. On the very country roads in some states he is forbidden to park except on the long straight stretches. And in cities—even the smallest city can boast of a complicated system of parking limitations and few are so tiny that they have not some sacred places where parking is prohibited.

Here is another problem that finds all of us, whether we live in a big city or a little one, all of one mind in that the parking regulations are wrong and ought to be improved, and all of different minds when it comes to consider what would be an improvement.

We usually attempt to solve the parking problem, so far as the streets are concerned, by three methods. We put a limitation on the time which one vehicle may remain in its parking space on the street, or we put a limitation upon what part of the day that space may be occupied by any vehicle, or we prohibit parking altogether. Usually all three methods are attempted in different parts of the city.

The first, that which says that a vehicle shall park in a certain place only, 15 minutes, or 30 minutes, or an hour, is not concerned with clearing the street of the parked vehicles for the convenience of through traffic. So far as moving traffic is concerned, it makes no difference whether a certain space at the side of the street is occupied for 24 hours by one car, or whether it is occupied during the same 24 hours by 48 separate, individual cars. The space is dead to moving traffic in either event.

The time limit parking regulation has three objects—one to keep the all day parking-hoff the busy streets, another is to let a greater number of persons in vehicles reach for a short time their destination without being forced to walk too far, and the third and principal object, although nowhere avowed, to hold out hope that there may be a place to park in the next block.

The elimination of parking for certain parts of the day from certain areas has, in general, two objects. The first is to relieve both sides of certain streets of parking congestion during the rush hours of traffic, so as to accommodate a greater number of moving vehicles; and the second is to clear one side of a street during the rush hour—down town in the morning and up town at night—so as to facilitate moving traffic.

The complete prohibition of parking is resorted to in narrow streets and public places where the physical limitations make parking out of the question; for the clearance of entrances to public and semi-public buildings, for the protection of street car loading safety zones; for the clearance of fire hydrants, and so on.

The complete prohibition of parking also is becoming more and more to the front in cities where narrow streets as a permanent means of increasing the available street space in their congested districts.

In most cities where complete prohibition of parking has been tried in downtown sections, except where the streets are very narrow, indeed, public opinion has forced a retreat at least to the point where parking is permitted during the non-rush hours of traffic. But as time goes on, even in such cities, there is a general swing of opinion to the no-parking idea for busy sections.

The rapidity of this change of opinion is controlled by the width of the streets of any particular town. Sometimes a wholesale change in parking regulations is brought about by an emergency ruling. In New York City, for instance, a special rule prohibiting parking in the morning and evening rush hours on main arteries of traffic in Manhattan was issued on account of the subway strike. The idea was to facilitate the passage through the streets of the large number of emergency buses. The rule with very slight modifications was made permanent, and has worked well. But up until that time public opinion in New York did not permit such a radical step.

New York is now considering doing what a score of smaller towns long ago have done, and that is to limit parking to one side of one-way streets.

In a general way, I believe that the greatest dissatisfaction with parking rules and regulations, after a city has once tried some studied form of control, is not with the regulations themselves, but with the uncertainty as to what they are. It is impossible to remember the complicated rules that are now required even in small cities. Nobody could go through a book of regulations in a hurry, even if he had one.

The cure, then, is to provide such signs on the street that will leave no doubt as to what the regulations are. It took a long time for the cities to learn this simple lesson, but now that it is being generally heeded, now that signs are freely displayed showing just what you can and just what you cannot do about parking, and painted lines on the streets show you just where to park, I think there is less impatient comment on the regulations.

The time limit regulation is very difficult and very expensive to enforce. A policeman must be there to see the car when it is parked, must mark the time, must see that it has not been moved and brought back, and then when it has stayed over the time, he must act. In some places he must find the driver and serve him with a summons. In others, a ticket will do.

In many towns, following the precedent of San Antonio, the car itself is impounded, either actually by being taken to a city pound or constructively by being tagged. This device, invented by the veteran attorney of the Texan metropolis, has saved many police departments a very world of trouble. Where it is not in force, the police have to find who parked the car and let it stay too long, as well.

At best, this regulation is enforced by assigning many special policemen to work. At worst, it is given an occasional lick and promise. In either event, it makes trouble, and causes good citizens to mutter dire things about "That's the way—all these cops chasing around here trying to find some man who happens to park 10 minutes overtime and letting all the burglars go free!"

None of which helps to discover America's greatest need. Every day as the automobile factories turn out more cars, and as our boasted prosperity lingers to discomfit the prophets of woe, every day as the cars get thicker on the highways, it is getting more and more difficult to find a place to park.

City councils do their part by extending every now and again the city limits of the no-parking zones, but worse than that is the fact that most of the time even the places where the police signs say you may park are not really places to park for you, for the simple reason that some other fellow is already there.

In cities with very wide streets, you are probably still driving around and around the block, inspired with hope. In cities with very narrow streets you probably have already abandoned hope, and park your car in a garage. In other cities you are probably some where between these poles of hope and despair.

Factory superintendents have to provide vacant lots for parking cars of their "hands" in many places, but that is impossible downtown. So as the parking problem gets worse and worse, the street car (which was hard hit and frightened into a conniption fit by the automobile) has perked up, started to advertise and some of us are beginning to doubt the feasibility of the private motor car with an average of less than two passengers as the ideal vehicle for ordinary downtown transportation.

No matter how calm we may be in our philosophical moments when we consider the question, the fact is we are all upset and what everyone of us wants is—a place to park.

Did You Ever Stop to Think

By Edson R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce

THOMAS H. DEMING, EDITOR OF THE WARREN (OHIO) TRIBUNE-CHRONICLE, SAYS: "That stopping to think is about the best and safest thing you can do. Did you ever stop to think that our failure to do so has perhaps caused more trouble and woe than anything else in the world? Our ability to think was given to us for a purpose. Like any other organ it must be used if it is to live. Ignore it, don't use it and your ability to stop and think will cease to function."

How many speeders would now be living if they had only exercised this attribute? The ability or habit or whatever you desire to call it, of stopping to think before going forward is the break or safety valve upon human actions.

How many heart breaks, how much woe, how much trouble the world would escape if gossips stopped to think before spreading about their poison.

How much better off most of us would be if we stopped to think before spending foolishly money we have worked for.

Too many of us are prone to rush in where wiser men reflect. Stop and think. A little reflection may show you the mistake in the course you contemplate.

STOP AND THINK. YOU WILL FIND IT A GREAT CHARACTER DISCIPLINE.
